WHEN young Mr. Walker was presented to him in Rome, yesterday, the Pope told the Mayor, "You are very young for Mayor of New York." Mayor Walker, who saw many beautiful and interesting things in his visit to the ancient palace of the Popes, was amazed at the brilliant uniforms of the papal guards, designed by Michael Angelo 400 years ago.

THE young Mayor was overwhelmed by the magnificent grandeur and beauty of Michael Angelo's greatest work, the Church of St. Peter. If he had time it would interest him to examine in the Vatican library a letter from Michael Angelo to the Pope under whose orders he worked, complaining that contractors were cheating with inferior materials. "Whereas," wrote Michael Angelo, "your Holiness knows I get from this work nothing except the benefit to my soul."

PRESIDENT COOLIDGE starts home from the Black Hills, bringing souvenirs of all kinds, from gold nuggets to riding horses, from high-heeled cowboy boots to eight-gallon hats. One piece of luggage is missing that he took West with him, the prospect of a second presidential nomination in 1928.

Many express the opinion that President Coolidge will change his mind. They do not know him. When he says, "I do not choose to run," that's definite. And millions of Americans regret it.

WHEN the farmer has plenty of cotton he can't get any price for it. When he hasn't much cotton he gets a good price. This year's crop is estimated at 12,692,000 bales. A year ago the crop was 17,977,000 bales, and the cotton growers will get more for this year's 12,000,000 bales than they got last year for their 17,000,000 bales.

MR. GARRETT says truly, that the ability of American industry to adjust itself to violent changes in cotton production and prices "stands as a memorial to the splendid resiliency of our business system."

So it does. But the poor cotton farmer has to play the part of shock absorber in that resiliency.

FOR the third quarter of 1927, the "Standard Oil group" will pay out $147,945,061 in cash dividends. In the first nine months of the year "the group" will have paid out $158,000,000 cash. That "group" consists of a flourishing little family of octopuses, which appeared on the scene when the big Standard Oil octopus was chopped into little bits by an infuriated comic opera government.

The little octopuses are worth at least five times as much as their mamma was ever worth. Chopping up ability doesn't seem to hurt it.

GROVER WHALEN, of New York, receives through Monsieur Bokanowski, member of the French cabinet, the Cross of the Legion of Honor. Mr. Whalen deserves such an honor, of which any man might be proud, and the whole country will be glad with him. He has done as much as any man to create in the minds of distinguished foreigners the best possible impression of American character and American hospitality.

Mr. Rodman Wanamaker, who took Mr. Grover Whalen away from the city administration and into his own organization, possesses a quality of greatest value to men of large affairs. He recognizes ability, and knows how to ENCOURAGE it.

GOOD news from Brock and Schlee, flying around the world in the "Pride of Detroit." Instead of making their landing as planned in Siam, where landings are difficult, they simply skipped that country and flew on to the coast of China. Another monsoon had bothered them a little. Their next "hop" will be from Hong Kong to Tokio, a little more than 1,800 miles.

GERMANY has signed the world court arbitration pact, binding Germans to accept compulsory arbitration in case of trouble.

In accepting a drastic agreement that no other great power has yet signed, Herr Stresemann says the German people are "definitely committed to a policy of entente and peace." The Germans mean it; they have had enough war. If the other nations of Europe mean it they could easily end their troubles and their fears, and without their world court telling the United States what it ought to do.

Attorney In Slaying

MISS GERTRUDE J. FRIEDLANDER

For the first time in the history of the criminal courts of Allegheny county a woman attorney is representing the defendant in a murder case. Miss Gertrude J. Friedlander (above) is defending Robert Stevens, 14, West Homestead, who, with Alvin Hess, 16, West Homestead, was recommended held for the grand jury on a charge of murder by a coroner's jury. They are charged with killing an unidentified white man.

PLANE'S WINGS FOUND

LONDON, Sept. 10.—Wreckage that may have been part of the missing British airplane St. Raphael was picked up by fishermen in the Atlantic 248 miles northwest of the Brittany coast, according to a Central News dispatch from Paris this afternoon.

The fishermen said they picked up two airplane wings on September 1.

The St. Raphael, carrying the Princess Lowenstein-Wertheim, hopped off at Upavon Airport, Wiltshire, on August 31.

DETROITERS AT SHANGHAI

SHANGHAI, Sept. 10.—Edward F. Schlee and William S. Brock, American 'round-the-world fliers, arrived here in the Pride of Detroit at 5:21 o'clock this afternoon from Hong Kong, a distance of 780 miles.

HONG KONG, China, Sept. 10.—Edward F. Schlee and William S. Brock, American fliers attempting to encircle the world in record time in the airplane Pride of Detroit, hopped off from here at 5:45 o'clock this morning for Shanghai, a distance of 780 miles.

The 'round-the-world fliers have passed the half-way mark of their journey. From Shanghai they hope to fly to Tokio, 1,120 miles and then before them will spread the broad Pacific. Their schedule calls for a flight to San Francisco from Tokio, with two stops on tiny islands in mid-Pacific. The first hop would take

Welcomers of Legion Resign

CHERBOURG, Sept. 10.—(U.P.)—The chairman and the entire municipal reception committee planning the parade and reception for American legionnaires upon their arrival here next Friday resigned today.

The action was the result of the police order refusing to sanction the legion parade in view of the recent Communist manifestations here and the fear of more trouble if the parade is held.

THE WEATHER.

Mostly cloudy, probably showers tonight; Sunday partly cloudy and somewhat cooler.

Says She Caused Split

Maurice Costello, former matinee idol still in the films, was granted a divorce in Los Angeles after 25 years of wedded life. With tears in his eyes Costello testified that the screen careers of his daughters, Dolores and Helene, were the basis of his trouble. Dolores wouldn't take his advice, he said and resulting disputes made his home exceedingly unhappy.

DOLORES COSTELLO

SIGHTING OF OLD GLORY PROVES FALSE

HALIFAX, N. S., Sept. 10.—(AP.)—The Canadian government and various wireless stations today had received no further word of the missing American monoplane Old Glory, from which nothing has been heard since she sent out her SOS call Wednesday morning.

Garbled wireless messages, giving rise to a report that Old Glory had been sighted, were received last night, but hope for the rescue of the plane, resulting from these messages, was quickly dissipated.

These messages directed Halifax officials to request Canadian vessels to search for the plane, stating that it had been sighted 400 miles east-northeast of St. Johns. It was learned soon afterward that this referred to sighting the plane before she sent out her SOS, and that the request for Canadian vessels to search for her was a delayed one, instituted by American officials.

OHIO STUDENT'S DEATH CLOSES COUNTY SCHOOLS

CADIZ, O., Sept. 10.—Harrison county schools have been ordered closed as a result of the death of Samuel Carr, 15, high school freshman, from infantile paralysis in his home here a few hours after he became ill in school. Several cases have been reported in other parts of the county.

GIANTS PRESS CLOSE

By CHARLES J. DOYLE.

Still in first place by a slender margin today as they prepared to take on the Quakers again, the Pirates might now be looking up at the Giants if their crack third-sacker had been an athlete of less persistence.

The Spirit of Pie Traynor is to baseball what the Spirit of Lindbergh is to aviation. The Somerville greyhound made a nonstop flight to third base on a wallop to center as he opened the fourth round yesterday, and while this triple was a thrilling feature of a hot tussle with the Quakers, it was Pie's spirit on the last 90 feet of the circuit that really won the day for the Pirates.

When Traynor dashed for the plate a little later on a tap to Southpaw Herb Pruett it looked like a 10-to-1 shot that he would be stopped, for Pruett started the ball toward Jimmy Wilson with the Pirate a long distance from the goal. But Pie did not slacken his speed; although it seemed as if a threatening rally were about to be nipped, Traynor put on all force and when Wilson had to step a bit forward for the ball, the fallaway slide of the flying Pie carried him across the plate. Wilson did not protest the decision, which indicated that Traynor was safe beyond all doubt.

LOIS DELANDER

NABBED AFTER CRASH

Four men, suspected as members of a gang of safecrackers responsible for a dozen recent downtown robberies, were apprehended as a result of an automobile accident in Greenfield avenue this morning. The men were arrested after the crash.

Detectives said they seized in the automobile equipment commonly used by safe crackers and a list of business establishments. Beside two of the names were notations, "No box," evidently indicating there were no safes in those places. Other articles found in the car, the detectives said, were: A device used to pry combination knobs from safes, soap, apparently intended to be used in sealing nitroglycerin in safe doors; a loaded revolver, and a newspaper clipping describing the recent cracking of the safe of Burke Brothers, plumbers' supply dealers, in Liberty avenue.

Thomas Ingram, 32, "city," was arrested in the automobile which had struck the huckster wagon of Michael Pakler, 41, of 1829 Webster avenue. Three companions of Ingram disappeared, but a short time later City Detectives Edward O'Rourke, Patrick Delehanty, Howard Forner and Jerry Deasy returned from the North Side with three prisoners who, they said, had been arrested in connection with the case. The suspects are Robert Lee, 39, of 223 Federal street; Charles McCartney, 24, of 904 Sandusky street, and Andrew Wagner, 36, of 501 West General Robinson street.

The detectives said they had not completed their investigation and would hold the suspects for questioning and until their movements at the times of the recent safe robberies had been checked.

Pakler suffered several fractured ribs and body bruises in the crash. He was taken to the Homeopathic Hospital.

2 OVERCOME IN $100,000 FIRE AT CARNEGIE

Two firemen were overcome with smoke when flames swept a double building, occupied by a furniture store and a haberdashery, and a small adjoining building, at 7-9-11-13 East Main street, Carnegie, this morning. Loss was estimated at $100,000.

Capt. George Ebner, 35, of 611 Hutton street, and Michael Dempsey, 49, of 600 Elm street, were the smoke victims. Dempsey fell down a flight of stairs as he was overcome.

Principal damage was done to goods stored on the second floor of

Hunt Pilot Of Stolen Plane

BUFFALO, N. Y., Sept. 10.—(AP.)—Police today sought the pilot of a stolen airplane which landed near the Buffalo airport with its fuel exhausted. The biplane was taken from the field of the Advance Aircraft Corporation at Troy, O., on August 20.

Residents who saw the plane land, said the pilot jumped out quickly and fled through the fields. Deputy sheriffs guarded the plane until it could be taken to the airport.

CALL LAND OWNERS IN COUNTY PARK QUIZ

Landowners from who farms comprising the new county parks were purchased, and John O. Wicks, attorney involved in the procedure through which the county will eventually acquire title to the property, were summoned to appear before County Controller Charles C. McGovern this morning in his probe into county finances.

Besides Attorney Wicks, the Controller issued subpenas for Wilbur C. Pearce, farm owner and now a park policeman in the North Park, and Harry N. Good and Fred T. Green.

The farms first were bought in Wick's name in a private transaction and within a few months will be formally purchased by the county from Wicks. The Union Trust Company provided the purchase money.

Controller McGovern wants to know all about the details of the transaction from those actually involved.

Witnesses questioned previously pleaded ignorance of details.

Balked in his efforts to get action yesterday, McGovern said he would set a date today for the County Commissioners to show cause why they should not be surcharged $146,211.02 for increases over contract prices on county improvements. The surcharge proceedings are being brought in conjunction with the pub-

COOLIDGE URGES SCRUTINY OF SCHOOL FUNDS

HE WANTS WASTES CUT

By Universal Service.

BROOKINGS, S. D., Sept. 10.—Careful scrutiny of America's billions of expenditure for education, to eliminate all "wastes" and assure a full return for the enormous outlays, was urged by President Coolidge here today.

Education right has come to be predominant in the affairs of government, the President said in a speech at the dedicating of the Lincoln Memorial Library at South Dakota State College.

"The importance attached to it is signified by the large proportion of public money which is devoted to its support," he continued.

"In the country at large it is probable that well toward three-fifths of all local taxes are expended directly or indirectly for education. We hear very little criticism of the amount of money that is used for this purpose, but it is undoubtedly well from time to time to make a careful investigation of this very large item, not so much to attempt to reduce it as to make certain that all wastes are eliminated and that the community is securing full value in return for its large outlays.

"No progressive community can afford to neglect the education of its people. Considered on the basis of economics their development depends very largely on the scientific learning and skill with which their efforts are directed.

"The day of the rule of thumb is past. The day of the exact application of scientific knowledge by persons technically trained in all the affairs of life has come.

"Any neglect in this direction would mean at once stagnation, decay, and failure. It is impossible for any community to hold its place in modern society unless it is fully dipped in the educational field of arts and sciences and research."

Extolling Abraham Lincoln as the great emancipator and the man who demonstrated the indestructibility of the union, President Coolidge said these elements of his greatness "should not be permitted to eclipse the mighty service which he rendered to the cause of vocational education by his advocacy and approval of the measure which established what are usually referred to as our state agricultural colleges."

These "created a vast agricultural empire," between the Alleghenies and the Rockies.

Bespeaking a collegiate cultivation of spiritual, intellectual and moral values, beyond material advance, the President said:

"Our colleges must teach not only science, but character. We must maintain a stronger, firmer grasp on the principle declared in the psalms of David and re-echoed in the proverbs of his son, Solomon, that 'The fear of the Lord is the beginning of knowledge.'"

HILL TAKEN HOME TO FACE MATRICIDE CHARGE

"HE'S INNOCENT"

That is what Miss Alice Sawyer, engaged to Harry Hill, sought throughout the country, says to authorities in their investigation of the violent death of his mother, Mrs. Eliza Hill, estranged from her husband.

JOCOSE

Hill, arrested in Seattle, joked with three Illinois officers who took him back to Streator to face trial. Extradition formalities were waived. He fled to Seattle in a "flivver," he says, and was arrested when he attempted to sell it to a garage. He appeared carefree when he boarded the train and talked lightly with newspapermen. Police rules were relaxed and he was allowed to go to a barber shop in company with an officer.

"HE'S INNOCENT"

His father, Dr. R. C. Hill, specialist, agrees with Hill's fiancee, Dr. Hill went immediately to Seattle when his son was arrested there and is accompanying the little party, due in Chicago Sunday night.

2 ARRESTED NEAR PAY CAR

Believing he was about to be held up in West Homestead, yesterday by two Mexicans in an old automobile, L. E. Andrews, driver of an armored money truck for the Brinks Express Company, caused the arrest of Igntio Garcia, 35, and Emanuel Arana, 40, of a Hays labor camp. Andrews said he believed the Mexicans attempted to crowd his machine to the curb.

When the men were searched, no weapons were found in their possession, and they denied any plans to attempt a holdup. They were then held on reckless driving charges and will receive hearings this evening.

lic audit into the county's fiscal affairs.

The mystery of a dead man being carried on a county payroll and a subsequent letter published censuring County Controller McGovern was explained this morning at the resumption of the audit.

The veil was lifted by Justice Schradle, superintendent of county buildings, who admitted that he had sanctioned Elmer Robinson, Negro, being carried on his payroll under the name of William Parrish, now dead, and inspired the letter censuring McGovern for disclosing the case. Robinson collected Parrish's pay for three months after the latter had died. Schradle said he knew it wasn't right, but that he had allowed it as an act of charity for Parrish and his family.

The trend then veered towards the treasurer's office. Alexander R. Lindsay, treasurer's bookkeeper and the man whom Treasurer Samuel D. Foster said knew more about the books than he did, was called and questioned about county funds.

McGovern, while questioning Lindsay, brought out that the county treasurer has no separate accounts with which to check on the county's finances within a short time.

Lindsay insisted on bringing up much matter that was irrelevant to the questioning. McGovern warned him several times to desist and finally excused him.

CONNELLY ADVOCATES ORGANIZATION SUPPORT

Civic pride would be developed much easier "if fault-finding citizens and disgruntled office seekers would put their shoulders to the wheel and help make Pittsburgh what it should be," Clifford B. Connelly, librarian at the North Side Carnegie Library, said over the radio last night in an address in which he urged the nomination of the Republican organization ticket.

"PRINCESS AMERICA I"

When the national pageant of pulchritude opened at Atlantic City "Miss America, 1926," was not there, having some pressing $1,200-a-week dates to keep. In her stead at the head of the inter-city bathing beauties in a seven-mile Boardwalk parade rode "Princess America I," who is Miss Alice Garry of the Coeur D'Alene Indian reservation, near Spokane, Wash. She was chosen to represent her people at a recent Indian congress.

WANTED PRINCE; STORK LEAVES PRINCESS

TOKIO, Sept. 10.—A new member of Japanese royalty—an imperial daughter—was born to Empress Nagako at 4:42 a. m. today.

The entire Japanese nation had anxiously awaited the arrival of the stork and prayers had been offered for an heir to the throne.

Emperor Hirohito and Empress Nagako were married in January 1924. Their first child was also a girl.

There was intense disappointment because the second imperial baby is a princess, the nation having hoped for a crown prince.

The palace gun boomed the announcement of the baby's arrival, awakening thousands who bought extras enroute to the palace gates where they bowed silently toward the Empress' bedroom.

Holders of decorations presented their compliments to the palace guards.

RENEWS FIGHT ON WOODSIDE

Attorney Frank C. McGirr today said he will file an appeal in the Supreme Court today in his effort to keep Robert G. Woodside from being a candidate for controller, as a result of the decision handed down yesterday by Judge Ambrose B. Reid, who ruled the court had no jurisdiction to interfere.

It is held that any appeal now from Judge Reid's ruling will have no effect on Woodside's status as far as his candidacy for the office is concerned and that nothing can now be done to keep him from going before the voters at the coming primary election.

them to Sand Island, in the Midway Islands, 2,480 miles from Tokio, and the second to Honolulu, which lies 1,440 miles from the Midway Islands.

From Honolulu to San Francisco is 2,400 miles. On these three laps of the projected trans-Pacific trip, the fliers would be guided by the "radio beacon," a system whereby a plane is able to keep on its course by flying in the center of a steady stream of wireless signals. Pre-arranged signals broadcast through lines north and south of the true course, will inform the fliers if they deviate from the true line.

Lieuts. Maitland and Hergenberger were guided by the radio beacon on their recent flight from San Francisco to Honolulu.

FIRST WOMAN FOREMAN

MRS. MARGARET DAVIS

Mrs. Margaret Davis, Coraopolis, member of the Tuesday Musical Club, and radio singer, is the first woman foreman of a grand jury in Allegheny county. Judge James R. Macfarlane appointed her. She is NOT the first in the state, however, as Indiana county has had four women grand jury foremen.

LABOR TO CARRY MINERS' STRIKE INTO POLITICS

By Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 10.—Charging that Pennsylvania is permitting a wave of terrorism to sweep the west and central soft coal regions of that state where 80,000 miners are on strike, the American Federation of Labor declared it would fight the issue to a finish in politics.

Strong arm tactics are being used by coal and iron police in the pay of coal corporations and steel companies, and deputized by state and county authorities, President William Green asserted.

The situation was described as intolerable before a meeting of the executive council of the Federation.

Union labor throughout Pennsylvania will be aroused to swing their political power against the situation with federation backing, Green said. This situation was outlined by Philip Murray, vice president, and Thomas Kennedy, secretry-treasurer of the United Mine Workers, before the executive committee.

Following the meeting President Green said:

"The information submitted to the executive council showed that miners and their families have been evicted from their homes by the coal corporations and that thousands of coal and iron police had been deputized to terrorize the striking miners and their families. These coal and iron police, while deputized by the state and county authorities, are paid by the steel companies and coal corporations.

"It is the purpose of the American Federation of Labor to consider ways and means by which we can render assistance to the United Mine Workers of America in its efforts to protect its membership in their homes and to preserve their constitutional and economic rights.

"Because of the attitude of the political powers which control the situation in Pennsylvania the executive council will consider the formulation of plans by which it can arouse the workers of Pennsylvania to use their political power in behalf of their friends and in opposition to their enemies."

2 OVERCOME IN CARNEGIE FIRE

the main building, used as a storeroom by the J. F. Sullivan Furniture Company. Water and smoke damaged stock of the Sullivan company on the first floor, at 7-9 East Main street, and of the men's furnishings store of Morris Scheuer, adjoining it on the ground floor.

At 13 East Main street the watch and clock repair shop of Tony Riggi was drenched by water and filled with smoke. He had no stock in the place.

The fire started on the second floor of the store building. It is believed that a spark from an engine of the Pennsylvania Railroad, in back of the place, ignited mattresses stored there.

Riggi discovered the blaze and notified Sullivan's wife, in the office on the first floor. She called Carnegie firemen. Later the Glendale fire department was summoned. Both day and night shifts of the Carnegie fire fighters responded.

The roof of the main building collapsed and all the furniture stock on the second floor was destroyed. Chief damage to the stores was from the smoke and water.

Ebner and Dempsey were given first aid at the scene and were able to go to their homes. Dempsey suffered slight bruises in his fall.

AMERICAN LEGION POSTER PRIZES AWARDED

NEW YORK, Sept. 10.—J. Mitchell of this city was awarded the first prize of $1,000 in the American Legion poster competition. Artists in 39 states and Canada competed. Chester C. Bratten of Chicago received $500 as a second prize and $200, as third prize, was won by William Heaslp of New York.

"STOLEN," SAYS VALESKA

VALESKA SURRATT

Valeska Surratt, original "movie vamp," seeks in court action damages of $1,000,000 from the earnings of "King of Kings," motion picture which she contends is plagiarized from an unpublished novel, "Mary Magdalene," by Miiza Ahmed Schrab, to which she owns exclusive film rights. She submitted the novel, she said, and it was returned by Cecil B. DeMille as "unavailable." Six months later came the photoplay. DeMille, DeMille Picture Corporation, Jeanie MacPherson, scenario writer, and Keith-Albee vaudeville exchange are named defendants.

O. K. State Rail Rates On Coal

WASHINGTON, Sept. 10.—Examiners Koch and Harris reported to the Interstate Commerce Commission today, after investigation, that rates on bituminous coal in carloads front Pennsylvania, Maryland and Northern West Virginia mines to New England and Middle Atlantic states, for track delivery, were not unreasonable nor unlawful. The examiners also held to be not unreasonable nor unlawful the tidewater rates on bituminous coal from the same mines to New York, Philadelphia and Baltimore, and from Virginia and Kentucky mines to Hampton Roads, Va., with few exceptions.

The examiners held that transshipment rates from Pennsylvania, Maryland and Northern West Virginia mines to New York for export or coastwise movement were unduly prejudicial as they exceed rates granted on similar shipments to Philadelphia and Baltimore. The report recommended establishment of additional joint rates and through rates on prepared sizes of bituminous from certain districts in Virginia, West Virginia and Eastern Kentucky to New England and Middle Atlantic points.

FALL FROM LADDER KILLS ELECTRICIAN

A fall from a ladder in the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie Railroad Station yesterday resulted in the death of Roland Voigt, 29, of 324 Pioneer avenue, Dormont, in the South Side Hospital last night. Voigt, an electrician, was doing some repair work when the ladder slipped and he fell, breaking his neck.

SPEEDING OF COURTS URGED BY CANUTI

DISASTERS CURB NEW TRANSOCEAN FLIGHTS

By International News Service.

NEW YORK, Sept. 10.—With the tragic results of attempted transatlantic airplane flights causing an unfavorable reaction all over the world, indications were today that the majority of flights contemplated for the near future or in the process of formulation would receive severe setbacks possibly resulting in ultimate abandonment.

Meanwhile, hope for the monoplane Old Glory, lost on an attempted flight to Rome, was revived for a short time last night when an unconfirmed report was received in Halifax that the plane had been sighted 80 miles east of Newfoundland. The report could not be verified.

Indications were that the attempt of Rene Fonck, French ace, to fly across the Atlantic in the Sikorsky biplane Ville de Paris, would be abandoned because of the action of the Navy Department in forbidding Lieut. L. W. Curtin and Ensign S. V. Edwards to accompany Fronch on the flight.

Charles D. Levine, contemplating a flight from England to America in the Monoplane Columbus, was urged by his wife, air officials and T. Harold Kincade, Wright Aeronautical Association expert, to abandon the attempt, but today he was adamant in his intention to make the flight. Unfavorable weather held him in England today.

Prizes of $25,000 offered by the chambers of commerce of Boston and Philadelphia for flights from Europe to those cities were withdrawn. Capt. R. H. MacIntosh, British ace, intended to fly to Philadelphia from Dublin to compete for the $25,000 offer.

C. A. "Duke" Schiller and Phil Wood, co-pilots of the monoplane Royal Windsor, groomed for a flight from Newfoundland to England, told International News Service they had no orders to discontinue the flight, and expressed their intentions of going ahead with the venture.

No report of the Sir John Carling, Ontario to England plane, has been received and the fliers are officially given up as lost.

By Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 10.—Appalled by the "mounting toll" of deaths resulting from attempted trans-ocean flights, the Navy Department today abruptly withdrew its permission for Lieut. L. C. Curtin and Ensign S. V. Edwards to attempt a Paris flight with Capt. Rene Fonck, French war ace, in the giant Sikorsky plane.

In adopting this drastic action, Acting Secretary Robinson announced that in future naval fliers will be forbidden to undertake long flights over water except in seaplanes.

The Navy's order created a tremendous stir in aviation circles here because it marked the first attempt by the Federal government to curb transocean flying in land planes.

VICTIM'S SHOUT BRINGS HELP; TWO HELD

A holdup victim who shouted instead of turning over his money, brought about the arrest early this morning of Edward Stephanic, 21, of Howard street and William McKey, 21, of Larkinsway, at Twenty-sixth and Jane streets.

Lieut. John Joyce and Patrolman John Kwalsky heard shouts for help and arrested the youths, who, Andrew Schindl, 46, of 2718 Sumner street, said, had attempted to rob him. The youths were lodged in the South Side Police Station charged with being suspicious persons and Schindl was held as a witness.

John Morgan, of 2915 Piermont street, Brentwood, reported to police that two Negroes early this morning robbed him of $78 at South Twenty-eighth street and Carey way.

Lee, J. W. Malone, J. F. Matejczyk, W. J. O'Neil, L. J. Quinn and J. D. Weibel. The School of Pharmacy will open on September 19.

FACULTY FOR NEW CATHOLIC HIGH SCHOOL

TO BE DEDICATED TOMORROW

The entire clergy of the Pittsburgh Catholic diocese will be present Sunday afternoon when the new Catholic high school for boys, Fifth avenue near Neville street, will be dedicated. The school will open Monday with a student body of 450. The new school ground and building cost nearly a million dollars. Here are the members of the faculty for the new institution. In the picture are (bottom row left to right), Brothers Austin, Adrian, Philip and Stephen; (center), Brothers Jerome, Gratian, Edward, F. and I. Thomas; (top), Brothers William, F. Patrick, Basil, Eugene and Cletus.

M'GOVERN TELLS WOMEN OF AUDIT REVELATIONS

The County Commissioners are blocking an audit "because they are afraid to have the facts, showing their mismanagement of the public business, made public," Controller C. C. McGovern told the audience at a meeting of the League of Women Voters in Edgewood High School last night. The financial records, he charged, "are in an unbelievable state of confusion." McGovern predicted that the voters will not authorize additional county bonds "when they know of the manner in which their money is being squandered."

WASHINGTON WOMAN LEAVES $125,000

Personal property valued at $125,000 is disposed of in the will of Mrs. Agnes A. Burns, of Washington, Pa., filed for probate here today.

The instrument, which sets forth that its author is honoring a request of a son, the Rev. Arthur A. Burns, that no special legacy be given him, leaves $10,000 each to two other children, Daniel J. and Theresa A. Burns, $1,000 to a granddaughter, and $1,000 each to two grandsons, Frank T. and Arthur R. Burns. Bequests of $1,000 are made to St. Paul's Orphan Asylum and the Church of Immaculate Conception, Washington, Pa., and $50 each to the Home of the Little Sisters, the Home for Incurables, De Paul Institute and the Sisters of Mercy, all of Pittsburgh. The remainder is ordered divided equally among the three children, including the clergyman.

An estate valued at $75,000 is disposed of in the will, filed for probate this morning, of Jennie S. McKinney, widow of James P. McKinney, founder of the McKinney Manufacturing Company. The will provides that the estate, consisting of realty valued at $25,000 and personal property valued at $50,000 be divided among her four children. Her sons, James H. and Robert L. McKinney, are named executors. At the time of her death Mrs. McKinney lived in Woodland road.

15 STARTERS IN BENNETT CUP AIR RACE

By FRANK BOGART,
Universal Service staff correspondent.

DETROIT, Mich., Sept. 10.—Fifteen giant balloons, each of 85,000 cubic feet gas capacity, manned by the cream of the world's aeronauts, are ready to start at 4 p. m. this afternoon from Ford Airport, in the sixteenth international balloon race for the Gordon Bennett trophy.

The race is for distance only, not for endurance. The present Bennett race record, to cross of 1,172 miles, is held by Maurice Bienaime, one of the two French pilots in this race. The United States and seven foreign nations have been selected as follows:

United States, three; Germany, three; Belgium, two; France, two; Italy, two; Spain, England and Switzerland, one each. The United States and Belgium have each won victorious five times and each has won inside on leg on the present trophy, the second Bennett cup which was placed in competition in 1925 by the Aero Club of Belgium, after that country had won the original trophy three times running in 1922, '23 and '24.

It again will be the next year, but in 1926 Walter C. Ambrosius, of Akron, O., was the winner. He is the captain of the American team this year, being the Goodyear VI. The other American pilots are Lieut. Wm. J. Hill, in the Detroit, and Capt. Wilbur J. Kieper, in a United States Army balloon.

GRANTED $1,000 FOR SCHOOLING

Orphans' Court has made an order directing that $1,000 be paid Constance Alden Tomlinson, mother of Henry B. Darlington, Jr., to help educate the boy, with the stipulation that the order for this sum will be followed by further orders.

Four year ago Mrs. Tomlinson, who now also has a $100,000 estate with an income of $4,500 a year, and her son, who is 13, with an estate of $50,000 a year, on which the income is between $2,000 and $3,000, was granted $4,500 for the year as the sole allowance. Application was made to renew it, resulting in the order being made. Young Darlington attends the Pasadena Military Academy at Los Angeles, Cal.

2 BOYS CONFESS FIRING STABLE FOR EXCITEMENT

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., Sept. 10.—When they admitted to Mayor Louis Franke yesterday that they had set fire to a stable "for excitement," Arent Allen and Fred Stowalter, each 14, were held for Juvenile Court. Police say they believe the youngsters also are responsible for two other recent fires.

EPIPHANY CHURCH OPENS BAZAR TO RUN FOR WEEK

Epiphany Catholic Church parishioners will hold an old-fashioned bazar in the school yard in Washington place for one week beginning today. A popularity contest for girls of the parish is on the program.

Traffic Judge "Tagged" Fines Himself $2 In Open Court

By Universal Service.

SUMMIT, N. J., Sept. 10.—Before hearing one of the largest lists of traffic law violators assembled before him in years, Judge Robert B. William accepted a summons for parking his own car over the stipulated hour's time on Springfield avenue and fined himself $2. The jurist paid the fine to Patrolman Patrick Kelly, who is also clerk of the court, before calling "next case."

The summons was issued by Motorcycle Patrolman Edward Egan.

AS ATLANTIC SWALLOWED -:- GALLANT OLD GLORY -:- AND HER CREW

ARTIST DEPICTS SCENE

This is the artist's conception of the scene as "Old Glory" flew through the stormy night, sending out its "SOS." Lloyd Bertaud was undoubtedly at the radio transmitter and Hill at the controls, as shown in the diagram. Very likely Phillip Payne, the third man aboard, was lying along the "rat-walk." The plane is believed to have gone down about 500 miles east of Newfoundland.

Rogers Sees No Sense In Flying Land Planes Over Ocean

BURBANK, Cal., Sept. 10.—I just went to ask one question. When I get it answered, it will relieve me and perhaps others. If a flier is going from New York to Frisco, where it is all over land—you never see them do it with a hydroplane — where they can land only on the water. Then why is it they take a land plane across the ocean. No one has disappeared yet over water in a hydroplane.

Will Rogers.

THE SUN TELEGRAPH MELODY WAY CLUB

CUT OUT AND SAVE -:- THIS FIRST LESSON -:- ON MELODY WAY SYSTEM

FIRST LESSON

Copyright 1927 by W. OTTO MIESSNER

Now that you have joined the Melody Way Club you will discover how pleasant it is to play the Piano. Many, many, over a hundred thousand girls and boys have learned to do this new way. Many of these "youngsters" are past sixty years old.

You may possibly be sixty, or sixty-five years old, but you can learn to play if you wish. Just try the first lesson and see the pleasure you can have playing the piano. How easy it is to play "The Melody Way."

THE MELODY WAY is a new Road to Music. Two thousand years ago Rome was the great city of the world. Of all the many roads that led to Rome, the APPIAN WAY was the oldest, most pleasant road. Today the Melody Way is the safest, most delightful Road to the Land of Music.

Long ago the Great Teacher said, "Lest ye become as little children, ye can in no wise enter the Kingdom of Heaven." So it is with the Kingdom of Music. To know it you must become as little children. The Melody Way is best and most because it is made simple.

Read the words carefully and follow each step. In less than one hour you will be able to play "Magic Music." You first play the Melody with the Right Hand then with the Left Hand. In twelve short weeks you will be able to play twelve of more pieces in six or possibly in all twelve keys.

You will learn how to read notes and to play other pieces on the piano when you have it. Music can be learned from any other musical instrument you may wish to play. This is your chance to get a start in Music.

Your First Piece

You will find the piece "Magic Music" printed on this page. Cut out the Lesson page and the printed piece below. Mount each on a sheet of thin cardboard and bind together with a cord.

Notice that there are four lines of words printed between four braces of music each with two five-line staves. The lines on the five-line staff above the words are played by the right hand. The notes on the staff below the words are played by the left hand.

Today we are not going to play the Melody with the Right Hand. You take only five simple steps. These will be very easy for you. If you practice one step at a time.

Now, to start at a table with your cut-out Melody Way Keyboard and Key Finder ready to use at the proper time.

First Step—Feel the Time

Read the words of "Magic Music" aloud, speaking them in time. Imagine that you are marching as you speak the words. Notice that some words or syllables feel stronger than others. The strong words are said to have the "accent."

Tap with your Right Foot (heel and toe) one tap for every word or syllable, the two taps for each one with a dash after it. This Melody has four phrases. Make them sound like this:

March —	Left	Right	Left	Right	Left	Right	Left	Right
Tap —	Heel	Toe	Heel	Toe	Heel	Toe	Heel	Toe
Speak — (1)	Mu-	-sic	is	for	girls	and	boys	—
(2)	Just	like	you	—	Just	like	me	—
(3)	Ev'-	-ry	one	its	charm	en-	joys	—
(4)	For	its	mag-	-ic	Mel-	o-	dy	—

When you can feel the time by speaking the words, drum them on the table with your Right Hand just as you tap them. First beat softly with your hand and let the fingers bounce lightly on your elbow on the table. Now drum them with the fingers and hand hanging loosely from the wrist, as with a metal drum.

The time of "go" of the Music is called Rhythm. Practice drumming these two rhythms.

Tap	Heel	Toe	Heel	Toe
Count —	1	+	1	2

Follow the words that go with these rhythms.

Every Left-Right, or each group of two counts is called a measure. Vertical lines called bars divide the measures. The black-head note is called a "quarter" and gets the count or tap of heel according to the way you mark time. The white-head note is called a "half," and gets two counts.

Second Step—Name Your Fingers

Place both hands flat on the table, fingers spread apart. Number each finger like this:

Finger Name—	Thumb	Index	Middle	Ring	Little
Number—	1	2	3	4	5

Third Step—Study the Keyboard

Study the small piano Keyboard just below the piece, "Magic Music." Notice that it has white and black keys. The black keys are grouped in twos and threes. Trace the first tone, Do, along the dotted line to the keys, marked F. Now trace the other scale tones to the keys, like this.

Tone and Letter Names

Tones—	Do	Re	Mi	Fa	So
Fingers—	1	2	3	4	5
Keys—	F	G	A	Bb	C

Notice that Fa falls on the black key named B flat which is the next key to the left of the white key called B.

Fourth Step—How to Use Your Fingers

It will be simpler at first to play the fingers on the table. Then, in the next step, it will be quite easy to find the right keys to be played.

Position

Sit erect, but far enough away from the table so you will have to lean forward a bit and stretch your arm slightly to reach the table with curved finger-tips. Keep the hand rounded as though it covered a tennis ball. Touch the table with the finger-tips and the nail's length of the thumb at the very edge of the table.

Action

1.—Falling Arm Weight

A. Raise the arm and hand several inches above the table, then let the weight fall with finger-tips dropping heavily to the table.

B. Now keep finger-tips resting lightly on the table; balance the arm weight, then let it fall into each finger-tip in succession.

2.—Forward Hand Thrust

Now you may thrust the wrist forward and the knuckles upward, which throws the weight of the arm upon the finger-tip and makes it press downward. This is like the motion of a rocking chair.

3.—Sidewise Hand Rotation

Also practice rotating the hand sideways, shifting the weight first from the thumb to the little finger and back. Then practice this also with the following fingers:

	I				II				III
1	5	1	5		2	5	2	5	3	5	3	5
1	4	1	4		2	4	2	4	3	4	3	4
1	3	1	3		2	3	2	3	4	5	4	5

Now practice the above with all three kinds of touches:

1 Falling arm weight (Arm drops downward).
2 Forward arm and hand thrust (Rocking motion).
3 Sidewise hand rotation (Wrist rocks sideways).

Remember that the fingers at first need to do very little. They only take up the weight from the arm which goes into the finger-tips.

Now you are all ready to play "Magic Music" with the Right Hand. First speak the words in time, as you did before, while you press down each finger for the right word. Repeat this while you speak the tone names aloud.

Fifth Step
Play the Tune on the Table
The Right Hand Melody

THE FIRST PHRASE

is made up of two tiny tunes called motifs.

Words—	Mus	ic	is	for	girls	and	boys	—
Tones—	Do	Re	Mi	Fa	So	Mi	So	—
Fingers—	1	2	3	4	5	3	5	—

Practice the second motif So-Mi-So, four times.

THE SECOND PHRASE

is also made up of two motifs.

Words—	Just	like	you	—	Just	like	me	—
Tones—	Fa	Re	Fa	—	Mi	Do	Mi	—
Fingers—	4	2	4		3	1	3

Practice each motif alone, four times.

THE THIRD PHRASE

uses the same tones and fingers as the first.

Words—	Ev	ry	one	its	charm	en	joys	—
Tones—	Do	Re	Mi	Fa	So	Mi	So	—
Fingers—	1	2	3	4	5	3	5	—

THE FOURTH PHRASE

is made of three melodic figures. The first two are taken from the second phrase.

Words—	For	its	mag	ic	mel	o	dy	—
Tones—	Fa	Re	Mi	Do	Re	Re	Do	—
Fingers—	4	2	3	1	2	2	1	—

Now play all four phrases on the table without stopping, first speaking the words and then the tones the second time through.

Sixth Step

Next we will play the Melody with the Left Hand. Notice that the Left Hand fingers are just opposite to the Right Hand fingers. The tone Do is now played by the fifth finger while So is played by the thumb.

Action

First go back to the paragraphs headed "Action." Play with the Left Hand all the finger exercises that you practiced before with the Right Hand. Do this with the three kinds of touch. This will strengthen your fingers so that they will work just as you want them to without your thinking of them. Then you can give all your attention to the Music.

FIFTH PHRASE

Words—	Mus	ic	is	a	mag	ic	art	—
Tones—	Do	Re	Mi	Fa	So	Mi	So	—
Fingers—	5	4	3	2	1	3	1	—

SIXTH PHRASE

Words—	Hear	each	rhyme	—	sound	in	time	—
Tones—	Fa	Re	Fa	—	Mi	Do	Mi	—
Fingers—	2	4	2	—	3	5	3	—

SEVENTH PHRASE

Words—	Mus	ic	makes	a	hap	py	heart	—
Tones—	Do	Re	Mi	Fa	So	Mi	So	—
Fingers—	5	4	3	2	1	3	1	—

EIGHTH PHRASE

Words—	With	its	mel	o	dy	sub	lime	—
Tones—	Fa	Re	Mi	Do	Re	Re	Do	—
Fingers—	2	4	2	5	4	4	5	—

Seventh Step
Play on the Key Board — Right Hand Melody

You now have only one new step to take. You have trained each finger to act when you say the scale tone which it must play. Also, each finger will move at the right time, because you have learned to feel the rhythm, or go, of the music by speaking the words of the poem.

Place the Key-Finder

Now place your full-size cut-out Melody Way Key Board squarely in front of you. Lay the Key Finder across the black keys of the paper Key Board, just below the line under the letters which name the keys. Slide the Key Finder into place so that the middle Do of the bottom row of squares falls exactly on the first white key named F to the right of the key marked Middle C. Now each square in the bottom row, with its tone name, lies directly over the key you must press to play "Magic Music."

Now place the finger-tips over the keys, first on your paper Key Board. The thumb plays on the front edge of the key using the lower side and only the thumb nail's length. The other fingers touch the white keys near the front edges of the black keys. The black key, B flat, is touched at its very top edge. Now play Do, Re, Mi, Fa, So on the keys shown by the Key Finder squares.

Repeat the Fifth Step with the Right Hand Melody, playing each phrase several times with the Right Hand on the Key Board until you can find all the keys correctly, without stopping, until you finish the phrase. Be sure to see to it that the fourth finger plays Fa on the black key named B flat.

Left Hand Melody on the Key Board

Keep the Key Finder in position as before and play the four phrases as given in the Sixth Step for the Left Hand Melody.

Eighth Step
Play at the Piano

If you have done each of these seven steps carefully, you will be ready to go to the Piano and play your first piece without a mistake. Place the Key Finder upright behind the piano keys so that the lowest row of squares will point to the right keys just as they did on the paper Key Board.

Repeat, once more, the Fifth Step, playing first the Right Hand, then the Sixth Step, playing the Left Hand Melody. If you have memorized the tone-names you will be able to keep your eyes on the Key Board.

If you have no piano of your own, some of your friends will undoubtedly be glad to have you try theirs. Or, there may be Melody Way Club Rooms near, where you can practice.

Next week you will learn your second piece with both hands. Surely, you will agree that "The Melody Way is Easy to Play."

"We are off," as travelers say when they begin a journey. You have started along The Melody Way—The Song Road to Music. "A pleasant journey" is my wish for every member of The Melody Way Club.

DIES IN DENTAL CHAIR; DENTIST BLAMELESS

NEW YORK, Sept. 10—Dr. Samuel Wallman, a dentist, was exonerated by the police who investigated the death of Miss Celia Cirkus, 21, who died while under an anaesthetic in the dentist's office. An autopsy showed that the girl had died of heart trouble and that no overdose of gas had been administered by the dentist.

Certificates Mailed Melody Way Members

Certificates are in the mail today for the first thousand enrolled in the Sun-Telegraph Melody Club, and many more will follow. For many thousands, among them men and women and children eager to learn the piano, are taking advantage of the piano lessons and the offer of the affiliated music dealers in using dealers' pianos and getting the instructions.

All the lessons will be free, as will the use of the instruments. The first lesson of the series of 12 is published in this issue, and the others will follow on successive Saturdays.

Enrollment in the club should be made as soon as possible, as the free instruction classes cannot start until the certificate is presented the dealers, classes made up and the time agreeable to those who will be students, arranged. The music dealers are anxious to get started and conduct the classes. The students have the choice of the dealers they care to visit.

Those who failed to save the chart published in last Sunday's Sun-Telegraph may secure one of the pages of papers by writing the Circulation Manager and enclosing 10 cents. Be sure to save your first lesson in today's paper. The enrollment blank follows:

HONOR MRS. COSLOWSKY AT CONGRESS RECEPTION

The reception given yesterday afternoon in honor of Mrs. Carl E. Coslowsky, president of the Congress of Clubs, was one of the most beautiful affairs ever held in the clubhouse, from both material and decorative standpoints. The gowning of the women was unusually handsome and the decorations were not only elaborate but exquisite in arrangement. Mrs. Coslowsky, looking particularly lovely in pink crepe satin and small pink hat, wore a shoulder bouquet of orchids, lilies of the valley and roses and one at her wrist of tiny yellow roses and valley lilies.

The receiving line formed in the lounge before a high background of feathery palms and ferns, and at the close of the program the line formed again in the auditorium to greet the interesters. Mrs. C. A. Brooks, as chairman of the social committee, introduced Mrs. John S. Sloan who, in turn, introduced Mrs. Coslowsky, both speaking in tribute to the part others have played in the development of the Congress.

Mrs. Brooks, with the assistance of little Josephine and Mary Agnes Heckman, presented Mrs. Coslowsky with a golden basket of white lilies, emblematic of Congress activities. Each past president received a corsage of yellow roses and each director a single rose. Mrs. Sylvester J. Rose and a corps of aids took charge of the dining rooms where tea was served. The decorations had been looked after by Mrs. James C. Mace and Mrs. F. H. Braun.

The program, which was brief, consisted of contralto solos, beautifully sung by Miss Mabel King with violin and piano accompaniment, and the short talks by Mrs. Coslowsky and Mrs. Sloan.

An especially interesting season, with unusually good speakers, has been prepared for the Dormont New Century Club members. Among the speakers will be Mrs. Anna Marshall McCracken, of Carnegie Institute, who will tell "Why Look at Pictures?" Miss Grace DeHaven Woodrow, of Morals Court; Mrs. Lulu Loveland Shepherd, "the silver tongued orator of the Rockies," whose subject is "Mormon Temple Secrets," Miss Sara Soffel, who will speak on international current events, and Mrs. Edward O. Tabor, who will give "a pageant in picture, song and story of the noble women of history and literature." The season will open on president's day, October 7, and listed among the special events of the year are a meeting to be held in Carnegie Library with a visit to the International, a guest night in the Hillsdale School auditorium, a children's party under the direction of the junior auxiliary, the mid-winter reception in Dormont Masonic Hall, the St. Patrick's Day card party and the annual luncheon. The various departments, literary, music, drama and home economics will furnish typical programs on the regular meeting days and the season will close May 18.

Beginning next Wednesday the Woman's Club of Bryn Mawr Farms will resume its regular meetings on the second Tuesday of each month to continue until June. The women are planning to visit the H. J. Heinz plant in September 21. "Facing Our Borough Obligations" is the subject of a talk which Mrs. C. W. Shearer, one of the members, will give in October when Mrs. Virginia Yeatmans also will be on the program for readings and Mrs. G. T. Eakin for music. The work of the Travelers' Aid will be explained by Mrs. Frederika Hays, a visit to the international art exhibit will be made, a Christmas party will be held and the new year will be ushered in with a talk by Mrs. M. M. Rodenbaugh on "The House of My Dreams." The latter half of the season will bring a play by the members, a talk on the Girls' Conference by Miss Helen Harris, a guest day with a fine musical program, a visit to Carnegie Museum with an address by Arthur S. Coggeshall and a sealed program in June.

Mrs. R. A. Kennedy will be hostess at her home, Lexington avenue, Aspinwall, next Saturday, at a garden bridge tea. The proceeds will be applied to the "burn the mortgage fund" of the Pittsburgh Council of Catholic Women. Mrs. Kennedy will be assisted by Mrs. F. H. Keefe, Mrs. John Long, Miss Grace Barr, Miss Anne Scanlon, Miss Grace Dickson, Miss Virginia Keefe and Miss Margaret Ward. Also as a benefit for the fund a picnic was held today at the country home of Mrs. I. A. Mamaux, Bradford Woods.

The Fourteenth Ward League of Voters will hold a candidates' meeting at the Morrowfield Hotel Monday afternoon. Mrs. Louis J. Affolder and Mrs. Sidney L. Kaufman will be joint hostesses. Other league meetings on Monday will be: Oakmont, in St. Thomas Memorial Episcopal parish house at 8 o'clock for reorganization; Twentieth Ward League at 8 o'clock in Langley High School with Mrs. H. Templeton Smith speaking, a candidates' meeting in Bellevue Borough Hall under auspices of the Bellevue and Avalon leagues at 6 o'clock.

The Delta chapter of the Delphian Society will resume its second season's work Monday night in the Hillsdale School, Dormont.

British Set Face Against Buying Foreign Products

—By B. C. FORBES—

I SAW only two drunk persons in France. They were both Americans, a couple who tried to indulge in boisterous calling-up in a Parisian cafe one evening. They were promptly squelched by the management.

WE THINK smoking is widely prevalent among women in this country. But it seemed to me that far more women and particularly very young girls were smoking in Britain than you ever see here. There they smoke on the street, in theaters everywhere. When I was a boy the only smoking done by women took the form of old, acrid-stained clay pipes constantly in the mouths of very old women, always called "grannie" this or that. N. among middle aged women was practiced to any extent.

Often when I studied a world-class man's face I noticed that it didn't light up until he got it carefully into his repast. In coming across I asked with Tex answer usually always was the same. I want to keep it for Sunday afternoon when I go out walking. One old farmer, when I offered him a light refused with the explanation: "Too early in the morning and I'll smoke it in front of all my friends."

Pipes and cigars are the favorites abroad. I actually found tobacco shops that didn't sell cigars. They are regarded as too expensive for ordinary folks.

THERE are heroes and heroines in every walk of life. When I went to call on an old friend, a woman, I was told that she had died, died under rather circumstances. She had consecrated her life to taking care of her aged mother. For years she herself had been sickly but she never often complained. Not until the doctor announced that she would die in a week or two was it revealed that years before she had been told definitely that she was afflicted with an incurable and bound to be fatal disease. But she had kept the secret absolutely to herself to prevent her mother from worrying.

ONE of the most cheerful friends I called upon was an elderly woman, knotted and twisted the joints by rheumatism, who had not been able to move out of her tiny room in a poorhouse (parish home) for four years. They told me that while she was struggling to be cured she was most fretful and impatient, but that the moment the doctors informed her that they could do no more for her and that she would be stricken permanently she changed her whole attitude towards life. She had fewer wrinkles on her face than any woman of her age I saw—she had the benign expression you often see on elderly nuns.

I HAD one pointed illustration of the attitude of most British business men towards America and other foreign countries. I asked a baker in a rural part of Scotland to make me the kind of shortbread he used to make 40 years ago. When I called for it he explained that it wasn't exactly what it should be because he should have used Danish butter. "But, of course," he added, "I wouldn't think of buying one pound of Danish butter. We won't use anything but British butter or butter from the colonies. We refuse to buy anything from foreigners."

"Does that go for America, too?" I asked.

"You bet it does" he exclaimed emphatically.

In what I was told was the largest grocery store in London, there were big signs in different departments reading, "Nothing but British Products Here," or "All British or Colonial Products Here," or "Keep Trade Within the Empire."

In talking with small business men I found that this sentiment was intense. The British people feel that their back is to the wall, that they are very sorely pressed, but they are determined to stick closely together to wage battle against the rest of the world.

AMERICANS sometimes complain about the tipping system here. This country is in the kindergarten class contrasted with the graduates in the art all over Europe. Departing from a hotel on the Continent is an adventure.

COTTON MARKET

NEW YORK, Sept. 10. The cotton market opened easy today at a decline of 35 to 44 points under a renewal of heavy and more or less general realizing or liquidation. Selling was accelerated, apparently by relatively weak Liverpool cables, and a favorable weather map. Many stop orders were uncovered on the decline.

December sold off to 25 to the end March to 30 20c, before any slackening of the pressure, net declines or about 37 to 38 points and reactions of 150 points from the high price Thursday in the case of December contracts. Trade buying was reported on a scale down, while there was a good deal of covering, but prices were within 4 or 5 points of the lowest at the end of the first hour.

Private cables reported heavy liquidation in Liverpool with an absence of bull support.

Lone Star In Demand On Local Board

Lone Star Gas was the only active issue on the Pittsburgh Stock Exchange in today's abbreviated session. The stock maintained a firm tone and was in fairly good demand at quotations much easily above yesterday's final price. In other sections of the list only a small volume of business was transacted, with most prices showing practically no change from those prevailing at the close of business Friday.

While the Lone Star was maintained despite the fact that directors declared only the regular quarterly dividend of 75 cents a share over the past several weeks there has been considerable gossip in the Street regarding pending increase in the regular rate. Reports of the initiation of a stock dividend in some quarters it was thought action along these lines might be taken at yesterday's board meeting. Declaration of only the regular quarterly payment, however, was recorded, causing a postponement of the matter in the opinion of several traders interested in the stock.

The general interest as regards Lone Star is that its company will soon be in position to declare an increased dividend as earnings are operating at the highest level. Several companies in the natural gas industry have increased their rates in recent months and it is expected that the Lone Star will follow before the end of the current year.

SAYS BRIBERY IS RAMPANT IN DRY ARMY

By M. L. RAMSAY.
Universal Service Staff Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 10.—Bribery is "rampant" in the Federal prohibition army, Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Lowman, its commander, declared.

Lowman pictured the dry forces as harboring so many "incompetent and crooked men" that some days his "arm gets tired signing orders of dismissal." Several are dropped every day for corrupt practices, he said, and this corruption is found in every section of the country.

The new dry leader's statement caused a sensation at the Treasury. Ensuing developments indicated that it had brought to a head differences between Lowman and other Treasury officials over the character of public statements issued regarding enforcement.

Soon after Lowman handed his statement to newspaper men he was summoned to see Secretary Mellon. He was closeted with the secretary for more than an hour.

To newspapermen Mellon indicated that he knew of no occasion for the bribery statement. He conceded that there had always been some bribery, but declined further comment.

DRIVERS' STRIKE DELAYS MAILS

By Universal Service.

NEW YORK, Sept. 10.—New York's strike of teamsters and chauffeurs has assumed a nations' aspect. Interference in the transportation of mail caused United States authorities to issue a warning to strikers and employers that no hindrance of mail or interstate freight transportation would be tolerated.

One hundred and eight sacks of United States mail bound for Haiti and Colombia were delayed nearly five hours when fear of violence prevented the trucking firm of C. P. Broderick & Co. taking a truck from a garage where several hundred strikers gathered. The mail was consigned to the Bridgetown of the Colombian Steamship Company.

Postal authorities in Washington ordered the mail taken to Pier 3, Brooklyn, by government truck, after Assistant U. S. Attorney Alexander B. Royce was convinced the Broderick company could not carry out its contract. The warning against interference followed.

The strike has congested piers and caused serious tie-ups in freight.

Weather Conditions.

A decidedly flat barometric condition prevails this morning East of the Rocky Mountains. There is a weak low centered over Wisconsin and Michigan, barometer, 29.88, and a weak high stretches from New England southward along the Atlantic Coast to South Carolina, thence westward over Tennessee and Kentucky over the Central and Northern Plains states.

The lake region low is causing cloudy weather over the Lakes and the Ohio Valley states, and scattered light showers occurred throughout that section. Over the Plains states from the Dakotas southward the skies are clear, and it is clear over the Gulf states section.

The temperature continues above normal. The 70-degree line extends as far North as Central Michigan and to Huron, S. D.

INDICT MONACA GATEMAN IN TRUCK DRIVER'S DEATH

BEAVER, Pa., Sept. 10.—Martin Phillips, of Colona, gateman of the Pittsburgh and Lake Erie Railroad at Monaca, has been indicted for voluntary manslaughter for the death of William McKinley Hoey, of New Brighton. It is alleged that Phillips failed to lower the gates at the crossing and permitted Hoey to drive a truck in front of a fast passenger train.

Speedy Wine Makers Deliver In 24 Hours

Very clever, these "vineyardists!"

Comes now the time when, according to a public announcement today, they will do the hard work of your home wine-making for you and deliver on your doorstep the precious juice ready to drink except . . .

It seems, according to the announcement, that grapes are growing fast. They are being shipped post-haste right to Pittsburgh. Here, these "vineyardist" representatives are pressing them and are prepared to deliver the juice to thirsty homes 24 hours after pressing "to avoid interference with nature's processes."

Processes! And How!

BAD DRIVING, BAD WORDS COST LADY HER LICENSE

LONDON, Sept. 10.—Unladylike talk by Lady Enid Margaret, Countess of Kinnoull, resulted in the imposing of a fine of £100 on the countess in the Marlborough street police court on charges of dangerous driving of an automobile. The magistrate also directed that she be disqualified from driving for three years. A policeman testified that Lady Kinnoull nearly knocked down a pedestrian and then said to him when he protested: "Oh, you go to — — —."

Lafayette Remembered

Various organizations at Washington, D. C., remembered the Marquis de Lafayette and the timely aid he gave the American colonists on the occasion of the recent one hundred and seventieth anniversary of his birth. Photo shows wreaths at his monument.

SUNDAY TO RUN FOR PRESIDENT IF WETS WIN

By Universal Service.

BATTLE CREEK, Mich., Sept. 10.—If the Republicans and Democrats nominate wet candidates, I will run for President on a dry ticket, and I bet I will carry 15 states, the Rev. Billy Sunday told delegates to the annual Michigan conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church in session here.

Mr. Sunday expressed the hope that President Coolidge will run for re-election, characterizing him as the ablest man who has been in the White House for years.

FATHER GOES ON TRIAL FOR DAUGHTER'S ATTACK

GREENSBURG, Pa., Sept. 10.—Speedy justice was expected here today in the case of William Donahue, of Derry township, on trial in Criminal Court here for an alleged attack on his 9-year-old daughter Lillian, last May. Donahue was arrested about two weeks after the attack, when police exploded his claim that the girl had told him she was beaten and attacked by a stranger.

Buttons Find Peculiar Times to Give 'Way; For In tance—

BRIDGEWATER, Pa., Sept. 10.—When a pants button gave way on the trousers of a Freedom volunteer fireman, the Aliquippa Fire Department team won the water battle at a carnival staged here. Freedom's captain called a halt immediately.

MOUTH-ORGAN KING

COMES HERE

Next Monday, Borrah Minevitch, harmonica expert, will appear at Loew's Penn Theater and will seek a Pittsburgh youth able enough at playing the rejuvenated mouth-organ to appear in his band. All the boys who care to enter the contest can fill in the blank and get a chance to play before Borrah. Newsboys, school boys, any boys who might be interested in playing for him can enter.

New Mouth Organ Sure, Join the Band—Maybe

C'm on gang.

Don't stop sending in those entries for the Sun-Telegraph harmonica contest that may earn some boy a chance to appear with Borrah Minevitch the world's greatest harmonica virtuso, who comes to the New Loew's and United Artists Penn Theater next week.

Borrah is more than anxious to find some boy from Pittsburgh's many players to take his place in this band that is creating more interest than any other band now appearing in public.

Once more the contest editor wishes to caution the boys on their age, for yesterday we were forced to refuse two youngsters whose age was over the 20-year mark. Both of those youngsters were in their sixties and we were sorry, but as we explained before, this contest is for boys only and in this we do not mean those of us who still believe that we are but 20.

In order to make it still more interesting, Borrah will give to each boy that enters one of his own harmonicas personally autographed on the night of the tryouts, and the boys who appear will also be given a chance to see Pittsburgh's greatest and grandest theater, besides seeing the entire show as guests of the former newsboy.

Do not hesitate boys, but be sure before you enter that if you are asked to join the band that you will have the consent of your parent or guardian.

Remember boys, all that you must do is fill in the accompanying entry blank and mail it to the contest editor of the Sun-Telegraph.

Please enter me in the Borrah Minevitch Sun-Telegraph Harmonica Contest to be held at Loew's New Penn Theater.

Arms Dividend Increased.

Stock of the Arms Steel Company has been placed on an increased annual dividend basis of $4 a share, with a quarterly disbursement of $1, formerly 75 cents.

Burroughs Earnings.

Burroughs Adding Machine Company earned $1.80 a share on 800,000 shares of stock in the first half of 1927, against $1.90 a share on 600,000 shares in the first half of 1926.

Pacific Gas surplus Higher.

Surplus of the Pacific Gas and Electric Company for the first half of 1927 rose to $5,166,551 from $3,703,587 in the corresponding period last year.

Central-Station Sales.

Sales of stock to customers, employes and other individuals in the communities served by Central-station companies in June amounted to $2,000,000 and consisted of 36,000 shares, compared with 28,800 shares in June, 1926. This statement is based on data compiled by Electrical World for companies serving about 85 per cent of the total number of customers on the lines of all companies making a practice of selling stock locally. Customer-ownership stock sales by Central-station companies for the first half of 1927 totaled $159,000,000.

340 Commercial Failures.

Commercial failures in the United States this week are put at 340 by R. G. Dun & Co., 41 more than a year ago.

To Close Ohio Body Plant.

The plant of the Ohio Body Company will be closed within a week and liquidation proceedings started, says F. A. Chesney, receiver and newly elected trustee for the company. Assets were listed at $925,753 and liabilities at $863,398 in the bankruptcy petition.

Readings Coal Shipments.

Shipments of bituminous coal over the Reading system in July were 1,346,479 tons, against 1,476,236 in July last year.

Iron Prices Lower.

Prices in the Eastern cast iron market, data the Daily Metal Trade, that for some time have been well below any reported for the last 10 years, have been hooked down to still lower levels. The situation has stimulated some buying, but consumers are not anxious to rush in despite lower prices. Pig iron quotations are resisting pressure to a great extent, structural steel fabricators in the Chicago district are shading prices in sharp rivalry for business, some naming as low as $1.85 on attractive orders.

C. of C. Board Probes M'Govern's Charges

A sub-committee of three from the municipal relations committee of the Chamber of Commerce met yesterday with County Controller Charles C. McGovern to go over all county records and the charges being made by the controller in his public audit of the county commissioners' affairs.

The sub-committee is comprised of Attorney W. G. Negley, J. H. Fetterman and Gregg Neel. They were chosen for the inspection task in response to a letter sent by McGovern to the Chamber of Commerce and boards of trade throughout the county on August 31, requesting them to make a personal investigation of all charges.

The sub-committee asked if the bookkeeping systems of the county were antiquated and when answered in the affirmative, wanted to know if it was within McGovern's power to install a modern system. McGovern said that was the purpose of the present audit.

Statistics compiled from payrolls of three years, the sub-committee was told, revealed that William Ziefel, chief clerk to the commissioners, and his assistant, James Routley, disbursed $1,823,000 in salaries with county money they had deposited in lump sums in their private accounts. The cancelled checks from the money paid out were never received by the county, but kept by Ziefel and Routley, McGovern said.

The sub-committee will continue its examination at the joint convenience of the members and the controller.

Auto Thief Cuts Way in by Roof But Is Foiled

A thief who cut a large hole in the roof of the automobile of H. H. McCabe, 1246 Resaca place, in Riverview Park last night, was thwarted in his attempt to steal the car by a lock on the gears. McCabe, attending a corn roast, had locked the doors of the machine and the thief employed the roof-cutting method to get into it. A sample case was taken from the car.

Anniversary

AS PASTOR

The Rev. Dr. John Ray Ewers (above) will begin his nineteenth year as pastor of the East End Christian church tomorrow morning. During this time he has received 1,712 members into the congregation and directed the building of a new edifice. In observance there will be a special sermon and musical program.

LIQUOR-CRAZED MAN BATTLES WITH POLICE

Locked up at his own request last night, James Winters, 35, of 1139 Troy Hill road, battled with police at the Allegheny Station today in an effort to escape. Dr. A. F. P. Houston, city physician, adjudged the man crazed from moonshine whisky, and Magistrate E. M. Hough ordered Winters sent to the city home at Mayview for observation.

THIEVES LOOT, DAMAGE NEW CASTLE CHURCH

NEW CASTLE, Pa., Sept. 10.—Thieves broke open every locked door in the First Christian Church and committed acts of vandalism, involving considerable loss, besides stealing $30 and stamps from the secretary's office.

CAR TURNS OVER, DRIVER HURT AS WHEEL LOCKS

Carl Fisher, 34, of 222 Jackson street, narrowly escaped death or serious injury early today when he was pinned beneath his overturned automobile in Babcock boulevard, near North Park. Unconscious, he was removed to the Presbyterian Hospital. Later Fisher said a locked steering wheel caused the accident.

Michael Valentino, 32, of 116 Bridge street, Wilmerding; Miss Della Fox 21, of 1417 Our Way; A. L. Fields, 40, a Negro, of 15a Auburn street, and Mrs. Fred Barker, Negress, of 7153 Monticello street, were treated at Columbia Hospital this morning for cuts and bruises received when a machine driven by Valentino collided with one in which the Negroes were riding at Penn and Braddock avenues.

Suffering from fractures as the result of being struck near his home at 847 North Canal street by an automobile driven by John Pilas, 27, of 416 Taylor avenue, the condition of Benjamin Sulkowsky, 4, was reported as "fair" at the Allegheny Hospital today.

Miss Gladys Hill, 22, of Virginia avenue, Aspinwall, was treated at the same hospital for severe lacerations received when an automobile in which she was a passenger, driven by J. C. Naughton, 36, of R. F. D. No. 2, Sharpsburg, collided with a machine driven by Edward Broderick, 23, of 4628 Blackberry way, 18 East Ohio street.

Pneumonia following injuries received September 5, when he was struck by an automobile said to have been driven by Edward Schneider, of Hamilton avenue, Duquesne, near Browns Bridge, caused the death of Nicholas Weifer, 67, of 614 Murray avenue, in Homestead Hospital yesterday.

Dorothy Dix Says:

When You Find Your Marriage Dream Faded, Perhaps You Let Love Die Through Neglect.

"HOW did we get this way?"

There are not many married couples who do not ask themselves this question after a few years of matrimony. It's all so different from what they intended their marriage to be, from what they expected it to be. They started out with so many illusions, with rosy dreams of what they were going to make of marriage. They were so much in love that they felt that just to be together in a little home of their own would be perfect happiness.

DOROTHY DIX

And here they are after three—five—ten years of marriage utterly disillusioned, with their dream torn to tatters, seeing each other not as figures of romance, but as a commonplace, ordinary man and woman with aggravating little peculiarities and habits that get upon their nerves. Home has ceased to be an earthly Eden and become a prison, and instead of the companionship they looked forward to they find that they haven't very much to say to each other, and that there are not many subjects they can discuss without getting into a quarrel.

THEIR marriage is a failure. It brings neither one any happiness, yet neither one has consciously wronged the other. They are both faithful, loyal, trying to do their duty. Neither one can point an accusing finger at the other and say: "You did it. The sin is on your head."

Is it any wonder, then, that many a middle-aged couple, realizing the high hopes and beatific visions with which they began their marriage, and realizing the dull misery of disappointment into which it has degenerated, ask themselves in bewilderment: "How did we get this way?"

Perhaps one might begin answering this question by saying that they expected too much of themselves. One cannot live always at the high peak of emotion. There is bound to be a letdown when the ardor of the lover simmers down into the steady warmth of the friend. The world cannot always be filled with circling wings and star dust. Nor can we live in a state of perpetual thrills and suspense.

And the trouble is that while we recognize our own necessity of getting back to normalcy, we are not willing to concede it to the beloved one. We want our husbands or our wives to remain in a trance in which they will see us as romantic figures instead of the ordinary mortals we are. We want them to continue to be ardent lovers, whispering impassioned vows of devotion in our ears and plying us with all of the arts and wiles of courtship during all of the years of marriage, and as a side line to making a living and supporting a family and cooking three square meals a day.

IT IS inevitable that Romeo and Juliet should turn into a Darby and Joan after marriage. They would murder each other if they didn't and had to keep up that eternal flow of soft talk. But, nevertheless, many a husband and wife imagine they have ceased to care for each other because they no longer have palpitation of the heart every time they hear a familiar footfall. And in particular many wives conclude that their husbands have ceased to love them because they have quit telling them so a dozen times a day and express their affection in deeds instead of words.

It is also inevitable that every husband and wife should be disappointed in each other. There was never any human being like the aggregation of charms and virtues that every bridegroom thinks that he is leading to the altar, and every bride honestly thinks she is acquiring in the man she is marrying. It isn't only that every youth and maiden put their best foot foremost and exhibit their most alluring line of attractions before marriage. The lover helps along the deception by endowing the party of the other part with every quality he or she wishes his wife or her husband to possess.

NATURALLY it is a shock when the poor, deluded victims of their own imaginations find that the Perfect Wife or the Perfect Husband they had conjured up doesn't exist, and that they are united to individuals who are just as faulty and imperfect as they are. Unfortunately, however, in their disappointment they are only too often like spoiled children, who, when they find out that what they thought was cake is only bread and butter, throw it away. Because their husbands and wives are not all their fondest fancy painted they consider them total losses. They will not make the best of what they have.

Many people find marriage a failure because they expect too much of it. They think of it as some sort of a miracle that will make life full of perpetual sunshine and roses. Also, they expect their own natures to be automatically changed by the marriage ceremony, so that they will suddenly become wise, patient, forebearing and amiable. They do not feel that they will have to make any effort toward making marriage a success, because whatever other marriages may be they are sure that theirs is a self-starter that will run itself.

AND when they find that it doesn't, and that the adjusting of a man and woman to each other is the most difficult business on earth and the one fraught with the most friction; when they discover that they resent the sacrifices that marriage entails, and that the ones to whom they are married have a thousand ways to irritate them, why then it is that they cry aloud that marriage is a failure.

Perhaps every disillusioned husband and wife mourns the loss of a dream that was impossible of fulfillment in its entirety, but nearly every one who asks "How did we get this way?" might answer it by saying, "We rubbed the finest bloom off our romance through carelessness. We let love die through neglect."

HOW TO KEEP WELL

by Royal S. Copeland, M.D.
U.S. Senator from New York

CONTROL OF DIABETES WELL WITHIN REACH

I AM heartily in favor of physical examinations at regular intervals. Everybody past 40 should not overlook the necessity for such examinations. The teeth, tonsils, sinuses, heart, lungs, stomach, intestines and nervous system should be inspected. The urine should be tested.

DR COPELAND

People who are run down, overworked, worried or below par for any reason are foolish indeed to neglect these precautions. They should submit to such physical examinations at least three times a year.

As you know, any one below the normal level of health is much more susceptible to disease than is a healthy person. Of course, some diseases attack apparently healthy persons. One such ailment is diabetes. Ordinarily it seizes upon the tired, worried and over-wrought persons. Nervous and excitable persons are in danger of it.

One of the first symptoms of diabetes is the large amount of urine passed in the 24 hours. Under normal circumstances a person voids about a quart of urine. In diabetes there is a marked increase in the flow. Two or three quarts, even a gallon, may be passed during the day and night.

In consequence of the discharge of fluids from the system, there is an increased appetite for water and other liquids. The thirst is apt to be excessive.

The appetite in general is sometimes increased, and this may be shown particularly by the yearning for sugar, starches and fats. As in other ailments the patient may crave the things he should not have.

Other symptoms follow in rapid succession. Among these are indigestion, loss of weight, disturbances of vision, such as cataract, and even blindness. The skin itches. There may be an inclination to dropsy and, as the disease progresses, boils and pimples and even real infections of the skin develop.

Calmness of mind, freedom from worry, strict adherence to the diet prescribed by the doctor, and general observance of the simple rules of right living—these are general rules which should be followed in diabetes. They are good rules for everybody to follow all the time.

Bodily warmth, a daily bath, plenty of sleep in a well-ventilated room and a moderate amount of properly directed exercise are all of great benefit. They help to control diabetes. They help to prevent it. They are worth practicing by all men and women to guard against all diseases.

The diet must be free, or practically free, from sugar, starches and fats. Lean meat, certain fresh vegetables, nuts and other starch and sugar-free foods may be taken.

By learning food values it is possible to vary the diet and yet avoid the particular things which are damaging in diabetes. If you should happen to be afflicted, devote yourself a few hours to the study of foods. Then you will see for yourself what you may and may not take.

The medical treatment must be outlined by the doctor. He will advise you if he feels insulin or other medical treatment of any kind is needed.

Just because you have this disease is no reason to give up your plans. Sensible supervision of the diet and the use of such medical measures as your physician recommends will enable you to live out your expectancy.

A Silent Reader

DEAR MISS GALE:

I am coming to you for just a little bit of advice. I have been going with a fellow for a year and a half, and find that I care a great deal for him. This is my problem. We have been getting along great lately. I knew it was too good to last, but it seems that his mother is always interfering with our plans. When we go out on Sundays he always asks me if I want to go alone but his mother is always there, too. Every holiday I always plan to go some where, but when he comes for me his mother is there, too. She treats me very nicely, but it seems to me that I should have some consideration. My own mother tells me not to go out with this fellow if I can't go without bringing his mother along. If I tell him about it he will get peeved. Another thing he is always throwing room remarks to me which I know he doesn't mean. He expects me to take it as a joke and I can't see it that way. I am very sensitive about it. So will you give a little advice on this problem.

A SILENT READER.

Why not insist on your own mother's going, too. That may open his eyes. It is nice that he is so thoughtful for his mother, but he seems to be overdoing the matter. Try touching at his remarks and he may stop. It is possible that he delights in making you a little angry.

Brown Eyes

DEAR MISS GALE:

This is the first time I've ever written to you. I am a brunette and considered pretty by my friends. I am coming to you for advice. Here is my problem. I have been going with a fellow for a year, and I like him very much. He also likes me to, as his two friends told me he did. We had a quarrel and he does not speak to me. He is waiting for me to speak to him and I am waiting for him to speak to me. I like this fellow very much and although I go out with others I cannot forget him. Miss Gale, please tell me what I should do. Should I speak to him first? Thanking you for your space and time, I remain.

BROWN EYES.

You, my dear, be the one big enough to forget this quarrel and speak to him. Stubbornness seldom pays.

SAYINGS OF MRS. SOLOMON

By HELEN ROWLAND

WOMAN'S "IDLE" CURIOSITY

Verily, like an ingrowing hair, is a woman who seeketh to penetrate a man's motives and to learn what lieth beneath his skin and his professional manner!

Yea, she is as a cinder in the eye or a thorn in the side, which he longeth in vain to pluck OUT!

* * *

For a man may cheerfully reveal the workings of his automobile and of his business office; but the workings of his mind and his heart he holdeth more sacred than his Masonic secrets. And to be asked the "why" or the "wherefore" of his words and acts, tormenteth his soul!

HELEN ROWLAND

Yea, as a ferret, doth an inquisitive woman burrow into a man's reserve and dig up his hidden reticences. She filleth him with rebellion and dismay.

For he knoweth in his heart that he is always guilty of SOMETHING; and that whatsoever she may unearth, it shall be held against him.

Yea, whether it be an old love-letter, a cherished sentiment in the back of his consciousness, a hidden bill in the back of his wallet, or a moth-eaten sweater in the back of his clothes-closet, he shall have to EXPLAIN it!

He is as a small boy waiting to have his ears washed, a prisoner waiting to plead guilty.

Go to. Every man cherisheth his "reservations," and demandeth that his secret "reasons" be left inviolate. Yea, he dreadeth with all his soul the woman who attempteth to lift the hood from off his mental, moral and emotional engine and reveal its secret workings.

Yet WHAT woman hath any respect for the "No Admittance" sign upon her husband's private opinions and personal feelings?

There are no dark corners in his soul which she doth not seek to expose and to "clear up."

* * *

She seeth through his shining shirt-front, his flawless alibis and his white-washed surface, and spyeth the spots upon his conscience!

She seeth through his office manner and perceiveth his weakness for his stenographer.

She seeth through his evasions, and knoweth all that lieth at the back of his mind, his chiffonier drawer, his brief case and his lightest act!

Horoscopes

Sunday, September 11

Astrologers read this as a day that is not fortunate for affairs on the planet Earth.

The safest policy while this sway prevails is to turn attention to religious matters.

Churches should benefit at least so far as attracting many to the regular services.

For the clergy much activity is predicted for the coming year when their talents will be enlisted in important reform work.

Church and state are to contend in the political arena, it is prophecied, for law enforcement is to assume a new phase of importance, the seers prophesy.

All the signs appear to presage a spiritual awakening and a new earnestness in right living.

America is to awaken to its vast importance as a world power and to take on a new dignity which people of every class will reflect, astrologers foretell.

One of the signs of the times is an extraordinary prevalence of love-making among persons long past youth.

Men of advanced age will marry and there will be many family discords because of changes in the inheritance outlook, it is foretold.

Mobilization of United States troops for an important event is prognosticated. This may be in the line of a national demonstration.

A London astrologer finds that the conjunction of the Sun and Mars is threatening for China, Japan and America.

Russia is subject to a planetary government that is most favorable to its commerce. An alliance that is profitable is indicated.

Persons whose birthdate it is have the forecast of a year of importance in the life history.

Children born on this day probably will have happy lives. Poets and nature lovers are born under this sign.

Monday, September 12

This is a day of conflicting planetary influences, according to astrology, which finds however that the afternoon is more fortunate than the morning.

Adverse aspects are strong about noon when it is wise not to undertake important constructive work.

The tendency of the mind while subject to the malefic influences is destructive in thought, the seers point out.

Judgment is not to be trusted when the stars menace as in this day's configuration.

Warning is given against impulsive speech and action, which may precipitate quarrels and misunderstandings.

While there is a good sign for those who enjoy power, wealth and influence they may be inclined to be domineering and difficult to deal with today.

Managers of political aspirants and promoters of business projects may find those whose interests they serve contrary and illogical.

This rule is most unfavorable to domestic happiness making for quarrels and even divorces.

Women are well directed in the afternoon when they should use all their best energies in business affairs.

This is read as a lucky wedding day, if the ceremony is performed in the evening.

There is a promising sign for theaters which should profit by this day's advertising.

Newspapers should be used for publicity while this rule prevails.

Persons whose birthdate it is have the augury of a year of big experiences. Success is forecast.

Children born on this day probably will attain fame. Both boys and girls may rise to heights in public careers.

Ritzy Rosey

CANVAS only for tents, gloves, camp chairs and such? Oh, no. Not at all! The latest is sport skirts of that all weather material. And if Ritzy Rosey and Jin should be caught in a shower on top of this fir-covered hill there would be no need to worry. Which shows the superiority of canvas over the shrinkable materials.

For Traveling

Pullman robes and slippers to match are easily packed in the matching envelope cases that are made of the same dark silken fabrics as the robes. Made in various styles, these robes are extremely simple and follow the masculine mode.

INDICT INDIANA GOVERNOR AND MAYOR

READS BIBLE ON KNEES

ULDINE UTLEY

Miss Uldine Utley, evangelist at Memorial Hall, always reads her Bible and meditates over its teachings on her knees. She is shown here in a quiet moment at her hotel.

Indiana Governor, Mayor Indicted

INDIANAPOLIS, Sept. 10.—(AP.)—From a prison cell where the quondam grand dragon of the Indiana Ku Klux Klan is serving a life sentence for murder, the finger of political corruption has been pointed at Indiana's chief executive, at the mayor of Indianapolis and at two other prominent political figures of the state.

Indictment of Gov. Ed Jackson, Mayor John L. Duvall, George V. Coffin, chairman of the Marion county (Indianapolis) Republican committee, and Robert I. Marsh, formerly a law partner of the Governor's, was the culmination of an investigation started nearly a year ago by revelations of D. C. Stephenson, the former high klansman, now in prison at Michigan City.

Under the indictments, returned late yesterday by a Marion county grand jury, Gov. Jackson, Coffin and Marsh are charged with conspiracy to commit a felony and with attempted bribery. Mayor Duvall was indicted under the corrupt practices act.

Gov. Jackson is the second successive Indiana chief executive to face criminal charges. His predecessor, Warren T. McCray, was paroled only a few days ago from federal prison where he was sent for conspiracy to use the mails to defraud.

McCray's name, too, figured prominently in the present charges. Gov. Jackson, Marsh, Coffin and Stephenson are charged in the indictments with having offered the then Gov. McCray $10,000 if he would name James E. McDonald prosecutor for Marion county.

Jackson at the time was secretary of state and McCray was under indictment. The alleged bribe also was said to have included an offer of immunity from prosecution.

Girl Evangelist Wins 5 More Converts

"Now I know there will be a great revival in Pittsburgh. The Lord has told me."

That was the assurance Uldine Utley, girl evangelist, gave her audience last night in Memorial Hall. She said she could "feel the Lord working among us."

The crowd was considerably larger than before, and there were five converts. One was a middleaged man who said he once had been in the church and been wooed away by business. There was a young boy very much broken up and with a worried conscience about many things; two girls, one a chemist and the other a nurse, and another man who claimed he had not slept since the revival began.

Uldine spoke feelingly on "The Rainbow Throne." She told her hearers of the glory of heaven and its beauty and rewards—"The place that has been prepared for those who believe."

She expects a volunteer orchestra and a junior choir to be organized within the next few days. The singing is enthusiatsic and seems to be doing a lot to hold the interest of the crowd.

When told of another revival starting Sunday night Uldine smiled and said:

"I am glad. The ministers will co-operate with that, I suppose and there should be a great stirring up now. I feel that I get crowds here at Memorial Hall that don't go to churches and, besides, I am sure there is no competition in the work of God. There can't be too many revivals going on at once."

GERMAN SEA RAIDER HURT BY JEALOUS ELK

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 10.—Count Felix von Luckner, famous German sea raider of the World War, is back from Yosemite Park bearing several scars inflicted by an elk. The count said he had been feeding candy to an elk, which knocked him down when he turned to give some candy to a bear. The count suffered several deep gashes in the abdomen from the elk's horns.

GIRL FLAGPOLE SITTER DEFIES HEALTH OFFICERS

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 10.—Bobby Mack, girl flagpole sitter who has been perched aloft for 15 days in an effort to break the record, scoffed at efforts of the health department to get her to come down. "I won't come down, I'm as fresh and healthy as I was when I came up," she said when told that City Health Officer Pinch had asked police to stop such silly and unhealthy stunts."

'Sally Does Millie's Work' In Addition to Her Own But Sally Is Happy

What Has Gone Before

SALLY JEROME, pretty and clever, is the prop and mainstay of her family which consists of MRS. JEROME, the twins, BEAU and MABEL, and Sally herself. Mrs. Jerome enjoys poor health, so Sally does the housework mornings and office work for grouchy old MR. PEEVEY afternoons. In the flat below the Jeromes lives young TED SLOAN, an automobile salesman, who wants Sally to marry him and keep on working. But the only man who interests her is JOHN NYE, whose real estate office is just across the hall from Mr. Peevey's. Nye hires Millie as his secretary and becomes blindly infatuated with her, making her presents and lending her his car, etc. But Millie confesses to Sally that, although she thinks Nye is a good-looking thing and that she would marry him for his money, she really prefers DAVIDSON, a former suitor. She tries to persuade John Nye to take Davidson on as a salesman. A check for $200 comes from Mr. Jerome, and Mrs. Jerome gives it to Beau and Mabel, who buy a cheap second-hand car with it. Millie is taken sick during one of John Nye's absences from town and one afternoon Mrs. Jerome telephones Sally at Mr. Peevey's office, telling her to get home as fast as she can—that something dreadful has happened to Millie.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

ALL THE way home Mrs. Jerome scolded because she had not been allowed to see her own daughter, and because Dr. Ambleside himself had not come down to the waiting room to tell them that Millie had come through the operation safely.

It was 5 o'clock when they got to Trellis Street, and at the corner Sally stopped and kissed her mother. "I'm going back down town for an hour or so," she said. "Mr. Peevey wasn't at the office when I left, but I wrote a note and promised to go back some time today and do his letters for him."

Mrs. Jerome gazed at her with wet, reproachful eyes. "How can you think of working at a time like this?" she sobbed. "Sally, really, sometimes I think you haven't got a heart in your body."

Sally raised her black eyebrows. "Somebody's got to keep working in this family," she answered, with a grimness worthy of Aunt Emily. "And I thank fortune that I still have my health."

She did have it, she told herself, exultantly, as she swung along in the warm, hazy afternoon. No matter how long Millie was out of work, or how seldom her father's checks came through the mail, she still could make enough to keep a roof over their heads and a loaf of bread in the pantry.

There never was a pain or an ache in the strong, young body, that moved with the light grace of perfect health and firm muscles.

The door of John Nye's office opened as Sally was stooping to unlock Mr. Peevey's, and Millie's assistant came out into the hall.

"How do you do? Working late?" she asked, in a high nasal voice, stopping beside Sally.

She was a thin blonde girl—the type that Millie, glorying in her own golden coloring, called "a dirty blonde." She wore double-lensed glasses that gave her eyes a queer, screwed-up look, and several dark strands of hair showed beneath her hat. "Dumb Daisy" was Millie's nickname for her. Millie had nothing but contempt for people who should have had her pity. She seemed to think it was their own fault that they were ugly or dull or dumpy.

"How's your sister?" she asked, and Sally told her what had happened to poor Millie.

The other girl frowned in an anxious way. "Well, that's too bad. I hope she gets along all right," she said. "I don't know what Mr. Nye will do when he gets back in the morning. You see, I'm not a stenographer. I just answer the 'phone and keep the files."

It was on the tip of Sally's tongue to say that John Nye would probably have to telephone an agency for someone to do Millie's work for a while.

Then she stopped, as a brilliant idea came to her.

"You tell Mr. Nye that I'll work mornings for him while my sister is sick," she told the girl. "That is, if he wants me to. He can call me up if he does."

Her only thought at the time was of serving John Nye—of helping him out. Of trying to earn the salary that she was sure he would keep on paying Millie all the time she was unable to work.

CHAPTER XXXI.

AT 9 o'clock on Wednesday morning the telephone rang loudly in the Jerome flat.

Sally dropped the knives she was cleaning and dashed to it, fearing lest its clamor should disturb her mother, who was still asleep.

"Hello," she said softly, her lips close to the black mouthpiece.

John Nye's voice answered her. "Hello, Miss Jerome. How's Millie, and what hospital is she in?" he asked, and there was anxiety in his tones.

Sally told him that Millie was much better and resting comfortably, according to all reports from Bethlehem Hospital.

"Now then," he said, when she had finished, "Miss Kriss tells me that you offered to do some work for me while Millie's away from the office. Is that right?"

"Yes," breathed Sally, and was ashamed of the wild surge of joy that went through her heart.

"Well—when can you come?" His low, deep voice stirred her, even at this distance.

"Right away," replied Sally, knowing perfectly well that she still had some silver to clean, a lunch to get ready for her mother, and herself to dress.

"All right. Thanks very much," John Nye's voice spoke again in her ear. "I'll see you soon, then."

She was still glowing with excitement when she hung up the receiver.

But as she finished her work and got into her street clothes she began to calm down. She began to be very much out of patience with herself because of that glow of excitement and happiness.

"Here you were yesterday, promising yourself that you'd never think of John Nye again because Millie's going to marry him," she told the Sally in the mirror above her dresser. "And look at yourself now!"

She was starry-eyed and deeply pink, and there was a smile that lifted the corners of her soft mouth and brought out the dimples in her cheeks. She had that miraculously-happy look that a woman has when she is going to meet her lover, and at no other time. A very special kind of look it is.

But the girl who sat at the corner of John Nye's desk an hour later was an altogether different Sally. A quiet, business-like Sally, who kept her thick-lashed eyes on her dictation pad and never once raised them to meet his.

"Minutes of a special meeting of the board of directors of the Nye Development Company," his

Illinois Girl Crowned 'Miss America 1927'

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Sept. 10.—(AP.)—A blonde blue-eyed, unbobbed high school girl of 16 today reigned as queen of American beauty with the title of "Miss America of 1927."

From a field of 72 aspirants who represented 37 states in the annual Atlantic City pageant, Miss Lois Delander, of Joliet, Ill., "Miss Illinois," was chosen to succeed Miss Norma Smallwood, brunette, from Tulsa, Okla., who had held the throne as "Miss America of 1926."

"Miss Dallas," Miss Mozelle Ransome, 18, of Dallas, Tex., won second place. The two were selected from five semi-finalists.

Fifteen thousand persons jammed the ballroom of the Million Dollar Pier last night as the selection of "Miss Illinois" was announced. The new queen, attired in her royal robes and wearing her crown, greeted her subjects from her throne beside "King Neptune," Eddie Dowling, musical comedy star.

"I am so excited that I can't say much," she said. "I am so thrilled. I shall try all through the year to do honor to the title which I bear. I shall hurry home now."

SHERIFF WARNS OHIO OPERATORS

ST. CLAIRSVILLE, O., Sept. 10.—Sheriff Clyde Hardesty today warned the Eastern Ohio Coal Operators' Association to stop sending strike breakers into mines here unless accompanied by deputy sheriffs. The association recently agreed to notify state and county authorities when any group of non-union men would be brought to the mines, so that officers might be present to prevent trouble. Hardesty said that coal companies violated the agreement yesterday.

NOTABLE GROUP OF STATUES IN CHURCH HERE

During the last week several additional statues of the Apostles have been put in place in the new Sacred Heart Church, Shady avenue and Walnut street, East End. This completes the entire series of carved wood statues of the Apostles. They are each 6½ feet high and are the work of Xavier Hochenleitner, Oberammergau wood carver, who did the work on the premises.

These statues of the Apostles form one of the most remarkable groups of carved wood statues in the United States, and they are much admired by thousands of visitors to the new Sacred Heart Church.

PLANS TO LIFT LICENSES OF HIT-RUN MOTORISTS

Immediate confiscation of the driving license of any hit-and-run or drunken motorist arrested, is planned by Superintendent of Police Peter F. Walsh. In this way the law violators would be unable to operate their machines while waiting for court action. Supt. Walsh has asked the city law department to give an opinion on the legality of the plan.

That night when she stopped in at Bethlehem Hospital to see Millie she was taken not to the three-bed room where it had been ordered for her, but to a big, bright, private room with a bath that opened from it.

It was filled with flowers—with late roses and early chrysanthemums. Amid their bloom and color and fragrance Millie lay, white as a ghost and without a trace of the made-up beauty that was hers.

"John Nye was here this afternoon," she told Sally with lips that barely moved. He brought all these flowers and had me moved out of the room and got a special nurse for me. I wouldn't see him looking the way I do. Bring me my bottle of Chinese black and my lipstick next time you come, will you?"

And after Sally had promised she would, she took no further interest in her, but turned her white face to the shadowy wall and went to sleep—or pretended to go to sleep.

With a heavy heart, Sally went home. . . . It seemed so like charity to take the private room and the services of the special nurse from John Nye, somehow.

"I'd like to see her married and in her own home. That's the only safe place for a woman."

But she had a far different story to tell when it came to the case of Sally and Ted Sloan. She had very little praise for marriage and settling down then.

"I don't know what anybody wants to get married for," she would sigh bitterly. "I'm sure I would have been a thousand times better off than I am now if I never had seen Ted Sloan's beautiful father."

All the rest of the week Sally worked from 9 to 5 for John Nye.

Trig and fresh in her crisp white blouses, she would sit across the room from him, tapping away on her typewriter, her head bent to show the lovely curve of her head, her lowered lashes making a violet shadow on her cheeks.

Love's Embers

Absorbing Sequel to "Revelations of a Wife" — By Adele Garrison

Odd Looking Foreigner Appears and Saves Madge from Embarrassment.

THE most pervious word which any woman can hear came to my ears in the shrill excited voice of my small son and effectually banished for the time all retrospection over the sad troubled hours past of my life and all introspection over the problem of my future course.

Yet his excited words when he came running to my side as I sat resting upon the farmhouse porch, were in themselves an insistent reminder of the problem I was facing, that of trying to revive the still glowing embers of my marital happiness or letting them fade into the dead ashes which they inevitably would become without attention.

"Mother! Mother! hurry!" Katie says it's almost time to go to the station after Daddy, and Jim has the car all ready."

I rose abruptly with a bleak realization of the difference between my reaction to this first week-end trip of Dicky's to the farm since we had moved back, and that which I had experienced to his arrivals during previous summers.

Then, no matter what our quarrels, even our bitterness, there had been a flip of joyous expectancy. His arrivals had been distinct events, most welcome, and even though we frequently quarreled during his sojourns, yet I always was genuinely sorry to see him depart.

But as I rose in obedience to Junior's pulling, clinging hands, I knew that I had been dreading infinitely this first visit of his. The agreement that we would not step over the lines of courteous friendly acquaintanceship if we continued in outward marital agreement for Junior's sake, was a most difficult thing to carry off, especially when I knew, although Dicky had kept meticulously to his promise not to try to change my decision that his contrition for his terrible doubt of me was excelled only by his desire for the return of our old loving, if often stormy, companionship.

"Don't pull so, Junior," I admonished him. "We have plenty of time. Let's see if Granny doesn't want to go to the station."

Junior stopped short, with an unmistakable pout.

"Then I can't sit in my Daddy's lap," he said, "cause she says I get dust all over her dress from my shoes when I kick 'em around."

"Wouldn't it be a good plan not to kick, then?" I asked him mechanically, my mind busy with the speculation as to what attitude Dicky would assume upon this, his first visit. "Anyway," I went on, "if Daddy sits with Granny in the back seat, you can sit next to me and perhaps I'll let you help drive. You can sit on Daddy's lap all the time after he gets back here to the house."

"You and me both together," he shouted excitedly, jumping up and down at the remembrance of affectionate moments upon the farmhouse veranda, when Dicky used to gather what he called his "bobbin" into his embrace while seated in an immense old wicker chair which comfortably held all three of us, as well as Junior's invariable puppy.

"We must hurry up to Granny," I said, ignoring the remark, hoping that he would forget it, although the expectation was not very strong. Junior inherits my excellent memory and his grandmother's tenacity of purpose.

"What a struck you all of a sudden, Margaret?" my mother-in-law asked a bit resentfully as I gave her the invitation to accompany me to the station. "I never knew you to want anybody along before when you went to meet Richard. Have you been having a quarrel with him?"

I flushed at the thrust, for it had been aimed with accuracy. I always had been selfish in driving along except for Junior, to the station to meet Dicky. Those first few minutes of companionship with him, after the separation of a week or longer always had been too precious for me to share with anybody.

Junior saved me the embarrassment of a reply.

"She hasn't had any quarrel with my Daddy," he shrieked. "She's going to sit in his lap with me in the big chair just as soon as we get home. She promised me. You're a bad Granny to say such things."

Guiltily I welcomed the impertinence for it gave me an opportunity again to dodge the question he had asked me. Mother Graham, who had risen despite her protest and gone to the closet for her hat and cloak, looking round sternly at her grandson, and I took him by the shoulders and looked steadily down into his excited eyes.

"Go and tell Granny you are sorry for being impertinent," I said, "or I shall not permit you to go to meet Daddy."

It was a most potent threat, although such is the inherent hatred of injustice of my little lad that he would have taken the punishment rather than apologize if his own small conscience had not assured him that he richly merited the reproof. Gulping, he ran to his grandmother.

"I'm terrible sorry, Granny," he said, "and I won't do it again."

"All right, my pet," she said, and the next minute we were going down the stairs to the waiting car. But I was conscious that she was covertly watching me, turning over in her keen old mind the suggestion which she had voiced to me. And when, upon Dicky's arrival, he took his seat beside her as a matter of course, I heard in her protesting, "Why don't you sit with Margaret? I'll take Junior back here," a precursor of still more embarrassing queries from her lips.

With my knowledge of Junior's persistence, I dreaded all the way home a recurrence of his demand, now, I knew, become a shibboleth with him, that he and I sit in his father's lap. Thankful, indeed, was I when I drove in the yard to find Katie and Jim in excited gesticulatory conference with an odd-looking foreigner, and to hear Katie's shrill summons for us. Anything which would divert Junior's mind was welcome.

Tiolene Stops This Power Waste!

WITH Tiolene lubrication, none of your gasoline's power is wasted, none of it can escape unused, through the hair-line crevice about the piston ring. Tiolene seals this space—stops this power leak—with a sturdy film of oil. Every ounce of the gasoline's energy therefore, does useful work in driving the piston!

Tiolene can constantly maintain this tissue-thin piston seal, against the gruelling attack of motor heat, because of the remarkable heat resistance which it inherits from Cabin Creek crude. Nature gave this famous amber-colored crude such superior qualities that it commands a premium price over other Pennsylvania crudes. It is Super-Pennsylvania grade—the highest quality petroleum found on this coutinent.

The most approved refining processes and expert skill preserve in Tiolene all of the desirable lubricating qualities of Cabin Creek crude.

Tiolene is 100% Super-Pennsylvania Motor Oil. It prevents the drag of metal friction and maintains a perfect piston seal. Tiolene, therefore, enables you to get smoother power—more power—and more miles per gallon of gasoline.

Keck Picks Fight Winner—Long Reviews Week in Sports—Boyle Dopes Pitt's Chances

HARRY KECK, sports editor of the Sun-Telegraph, and the first sports writer in America to pick Gene Tunney to defeat Jack Dempsey in their fight last year, naming him almost two months before the battle, goes on record in Sunday's issue as to his choice in the return bout between the pair, at Chicago a week from next Thursday night. Will he pick Tunney again, or does he favor Dempsey's chances of coming back? Read his article and see.

FOR YEARS James J. Long's weekly sport review has been one of the leading features of the sports pages of Pittsburgh. The former sports editor of the Sun resumed this series in last Sunday's issue, much to the delight of the readers of this newspaper, and next Sunday he'll have another comprehensive review. This will be a regular Sunday feature from now on and one that will be avidly read by the writer's large following.

THE FOOTBALL PROSPECTS of Carnegie Tech, Pitt, Duquesne University and Penn State already have been reviewed by James J. Long in daily issues of the Sun-Telegraph. Havey J. Boyle, former sports editor of the Chronicle-Telegraph, is now visiting the Pitt squad at Camp Hamilton, Windber, along with a photographer, and will have one of his sparkling articles on the Panthers' outlook in Sunday's issue, along with a large layout of pictures. Other features will help to make the sports section a notable one on this day.

CUP DUEL NEAR END

SPORT COMMENT by JAMES J. LONG

AMONG the recruits who will be recalled from the brush belt for further tryouts with the Pirates is one little infielder whom various scouts have termed such an able diamond performer that it may be no easy matter for any rival to keep him from earning a regular job on the Buccaneers' first line of defense next year.

The youngster is Dick Bartell, a kid picked up in California a year ago and given a trial with the Corsairs on their training trip last spring. Dick was too young and green at that time to be retained for major league service, but since being sent to Bridgeport, Conn., in the Eastern League, for seasoning and development he has come along at such a rate that many smart baseball men who have watched him, will confess that they are poor guessers if he does not "stick" when he gets his second chance with the Bushmen.

ACCORDING to reports from the Eastern League there isn't anything in an infielder's line of duty that Bartell cannot do well. He is a ball hawk in the field, has a fine throwing arm, is fast on his feet, a reliable hitter and fairly oozes pepper and fight.

Since he was sent to Bridgeport, the recruit has failed to play in only one game, his absence on that occasion being due to a shaking-up he received when hit on the head the preceding day with a pitched ball. That injury caused him to fall below the .300 batting mark for a time, but he is up to .287 again and climbing steadily. The latest batch of figures from the Eastern League show that in 13 straight games Bartell did not make an error, accepted 32 putouts and 40 assists, or a total of 92 chances in that time without a slip, and made 14 hits in 45 times at bat for an average of .311.

MANAGER BUSH and Treasurer Sam Dreyfuss of the Pittsburgh club were enthusiastic about Bartell after making a recent trip to watch him in action. They report that he is of the hustling fighting type that makes plenty of noise—something that is needed in the Pirate infield when Joe Harris is not playing—and that he "has the nerve of a burglar."

Bartell has been playing shortstop for Bridgeport, but it is believed the Pirate management plans to place him at second base.

DISPLAYING the hustle and businesslike methods that every one who knows him was confident he would show, John L. Hernon, one of the city's leading newspapermen for many years, who recently was appointed manager of Motor Square Garden, has buckled down to his new duties in a manner that assures the boxing game at the East End arena the coming season will be conducted as smoothly and as satisfactorily as anywhere in the country.

Manager Hernon is planning many improvements and new conveniences for the boxing crowds at the Garden, and there is every promise that the business end of the glove game there will be handled in a way that will leave nothing to be desired.

INCIDENTALLY, the change in management at Motor Square as a result of the death of John J. Bell, former manager, last March 2, means that Pittsburgh will miss (or escape) a revival of six-day bicycle racing the coming winter. Mr. Bell, after attending the big bike grinds that are annual fixtures in New York and Chicago, felt confident that they could be run successfully here and was planning to show the international riders to Pittsburghers next winter in the first six-day race of the kind that this city has seen in three decades.

The late manager of Motor Square sports was the only local promoter who could see any chance for such an event being held here with success, so it is pretty certain now that the plan will be abandoned, and that New York and Chicago will be allowed to keep the six-day races without any interference from this part of the map.

IF Frank Moran listens to the requests of his local friends and applies for a referee's license so that he may be able to officiate as the third man in the ring at the opening show of the indoor boxing season here next month, a feature that would be certain to add to the attractiveness of the initial card, you may mark it down that that is the nearest he will ever come to participating in an actual ring affair again.

Frank may consent to serve as referee occasionally, but he is very emphatic in the statement that when he retired from the glove game as a fighter five years ago he gave it up for good.

Moran was 40 years old last March 18, his birthday missing St. Patrick's Day by only 24 hours, much to Frank's regret, but in spite of all the tough battles he has gone through he appears to be still in as good condition as any of the present-day ring warriors.

BUCCOS FIGHT TO HOLD LEAD

MEADOWS TO FACE PHILS

would have failed on the same action—the run might not have produced a tally and the Quakers would have been in a fair way to grab a victory, for they scored two clean tallies in the ensuing innings. Traynor's speed and spirit gave the Pirates a tally and kept two men on the sacks with none out. A couple of fortunate blows made it a big inning for the Buccos and the resultant victory enabled the Buccos to stay in front of the Giants, who were victorious in Chicago.

Lee Meadows was due to work against the Quakers this afternoon, with Frank Ulrich heading them for the visitors. Tomorrow is an open date for both teams, the Quakers to make their farewell appearance here on Monday.

Cy Williams, rightfielder of the Phils, will make an attempt to return to the lineup this afternoon if his injured leg shows any improvement.

Victor Aldridge was in a fine stride as he turned back the Quaker hosts. Herb Pruett was just about as good as Aldridge, but Herb felt the force of Traynor's endeavor and could not prevent two more tallies that followed Pie across the plate. Aldridge held the Phillies to six hits, Pruett allowing eight.

Adam Comorosky was in left field in place of Clyde Barnhart. To the Polish recruit went the honor of driving in the winning run. Adam singled to left with the bases filled to produce the tally that stood out with such radiance at the close.

U. S.-BRITISH POLOISTS BATTLE

NEW YORK, Sept. 10.—(U.P.)—With the same lineup that repelled the invaders in 1924, America's Big Four today faces the British Army-In-India polo team in the first match of the ninth international challenge cup series at Meadowbrook Club, Westbury, L. I.

The players of both teams have been preparing for this occasion for three years—the British building a team to take back the cup, and the Americans keeping their great quartet intact for the defense of the historic trophy.

Forty thousand spectators from all parts of the world will gather to see the oldest of all games with stick and ball as played by the foremost polo players in the world.

Since the days of the first match between America and England in 1886 at Newport, R. I., the world of amateur sport and fashion has centered its attention on these games.

The teams will lineup as follows:

UNITED STATES—(Defender)
No. 1—J. Watson Webb.
No. 2—Thomas Hitchcock, Jr.
No. 3—Malcolm Stevenson.
Back—Devereux Milburn (C.)

ENGLAND—(Challenger)
No. 1—Capt. Claude E. Pert.
No. 2—Maj. Austin H. Williams.
No. 3—Capt. C. T. I. Roark.
Back—Maj. Eric G. Atkinson (C.)

There will be no last-minute change in the British lineup, as rumored for the past few days.

"The British team is ready for the test as it stands," Col. Commandant H. A. Tomkinson said.

The match will be decided by the best two out of three games. The second game will be played Wednesday. If a third game is necessary, it will be played Saturday, September 17.

The physical condition of Tommy Hitchcock, who is regarded as the hardest-riding and hardest-hitting polo player in the world, has caused no end of fear in the ranks of American polo enthusiasts.

He has remained out of several practice matches recently, and the word has been whispered around that he is not in shape for a strenuous international game. Hitchcock insists he is in shape and intends to prove it today.

Barring accident, he will be at No. 2 for the United States when the game starts.

Gene Too Tough For Dempsey As a Golfer.

By GEORGE BARRY.

International News service staff Correspondent.

CHICAGO, Sept. 10. — "Say, what kind of a game does this Gene Tunney shoot?" asked Jack Dempsey of some reporters who have seen the fistic champion of the universe on the links.

"Oh, between 80 and 90," was the answer.

Dempsey wrinkled his forehead in surprise and then said:

"Well, that's out."

"What's out?" queried one of the bystanders.

"The idea of challenging him to do a little golfing later in our lives," said Dempsey. "I always was a terrible dub at this golf game. He's too tough for me—too tough. I shoot around 100."

U. S. GRIPS DAVIS CUP LEAD

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 10.—(U.P.)—Unless the French can stop the slashing, irresisble Tilden today the Davis Cup will remain in America for another year.

Leading two matches to one, the United States only has to win one of the two singles matches today to cinch the cup.

William T. Tilden meets Rene La Coste in one match and William Johnston plays Henri Cochet in the other.

Tilden already has one singles victory for the United States to his credit, and he played a major part in the doubles triumph. Playing as he has the last two days, it is doubtful if La Coste or any other living tennis player can stop Tilden.

Never in the long history of the Davis Cup has any one player risen to the heights that Tilden has reached in this year's defense of the cup. He was at his best yesterday when he and Francis T. Hunter beat Jean Borotra and Jacqu s Brugnon, 3-6, 6-3, 6-3, 4-6 and 6-0.

There is a feeling that the final outcome of the struggle is up to Tilden as Little Bill Johnston is almost certain to fall before the brilliant Cochet.

Unless Johnston should show an absolute reversal of form he exhibited against La Coste on Thursday, Little Bill is not apt to bother the former ball boy of Lyons, who extended Tilden to the limit on the first day.

There still is hope for the French. Both of their stars, LaCoste and Cochet, rested yesterday, while Tilden was battling through five long sets with Borotra and Brugnon.

Tilden has played nine sets of strenuous tennis in two days, while LaCoste has played only three sets, in which he traveled under wraps all the way, winning largely on Johnston's errors.

LaCoste's machine-like game may upset Tilden if the match is close and carried into four or five sets. Tilden's reservoir of strength might not hold enough to check the mechanical game of the French millionaire.

TY COBB OF POLO

That's the title bestowed upon Devereaux Milburn, captain of the U. S. polo team that meets the British four in the first game of the international series today. Milburn played on the team that won the cup in 1909 and has played on every team since then.

ALL $40, $30 SEATS SOLD, TEX SAYS

CHICAGO, Sept. 10.—(AP.)—All the $40 and $30 seats, the choicest locations for the Tunney-Dempsey battle in Soldier Field, September 22, have been sold, Tex Rickard has announced.

Because of the rush of business, Rickard said he had been unable to tabulate the figures, but his guess was that the advance sale had exceeded the $2,000,000 mark, assuring a record purse for the battle.

More than 90,000 seats already have been sold, including 40,000 "ringside" and about 20,000 $30 tickets. The $40 and $30 tickets were snapped up in the advance sale and in the first few days' operation of the box office.

While pawing over late ticket applications yesterday, Rickard came across a telegram from John Ringling, the former circus magnate and partner of Rickard in launching the Madison Square Garden Corporation.

The message caused Rickard to scratch his head because he had saved no tickets for Ringling, forgetting him entirely in the rush for seats. There was a grand fumbling among ticket reservations with the prospect that Rickard would eventually dig up a couple of seats for his old comrade.

The first big purse-winning heavyweight champion, James J. Jeffries, who drew down $100,000 for his losing battle with Jack Johnson at Reno in 1910, arrived yesterday to watch Tunney and Dempsey battle for the major share of a $2,000,000 gate. Jeffries refused to comment on the prospects of the two young men striving for the crown he once wore.

COURT DECISION MONDAY

CHICAGO, Sept. 10.—Decision on the petition of R. C. Clements to stop the Tunney-Dempsey fight here September 22 will be given Monday morning, Judge Otto Kerner, before whom the injunction proceedings were argued yesterday, recessed his court until that time.

Clements seeks to stop the fight until Dempsey has fulfilled a contract he says he has with him to fight Harry Wills.

LEGION STAGES MEET TODAY

Edgar Thomson Park, Braddock, will this afternoon be the scene of a highly interesting track and field meet, to be staged free of charge under the auspices of Post No. 99 of the American Legion.

While the entry list is not as large as that of some of the other meets held hereabouts this summer, it is filled with class, and some great performances are sure to feature the program today.

A number of college and school athletes are entered and will compete against the cream of the club talent. The affair will open with a modified marathon run of 11 miles over the streets of Braddock and surrounding boroughs and the track and field events will follow.

Two relay races are features of the card, one of them an open event and the other for Legion teams. There will also be an amateur wrestling match between Simon Brown, the Edgar Thomson Steel Olympic games representative, and Lex Neff.

PITT'S GRID COACHES---AT CAMP HAMILTON

SKIP GOUGLER ALEX STEVENSON DR. J. B. (JOCK) SUTHERLAND CHARLEY BOWSER

Look over the men who look over the football talent of the University of Pittsburgh. They were snapped together for the above picture at the Panthers' training site at Camp Hamilton, near Windber, Pa., yesterday. Sutherland is the head coach and Stevenson has been an advisory coach under Jock and Glenn Warner for a number of seasons. Gougler worked with Jock at Lafayette College, while Bowser quit as head coach at Grove City College to return to his alma mater as one of Jock's assistants. Jock was a guard on Pitt's 1916 team, generally accounted Pitt's greatest eleven, and Gougler also was a member of this squad, a good back and a fine kicker. Bowser was one of the most versatile men that ever wore the Blue and Gold. He was equally adept at center, end or in the backfield and was one of the "fightingest" captains Pitt ever had.

THE SUN NEVER SETS ON CHESTERFIELD'S POPULARITY

in Canada...

winter and summer playground of the western world

OUR neighbor to the north has not known Chesterfield so very long—but is getting to know it very well!

From St. Johns to Vancouver, more and more smokers each day are finding its natural tobacco taste and fragrance something definitely new in smoking pleasure.

So another great country is added to the world-wide popularity of Chesterfield.

Chesterfield

—such popularity must be deserved!

Kauffmann Regains City Golf Title

By VERNON A. SWARTSFAGER.

THE human iceberg wins again! Carl F. Kauffman had his name inscribed on the Frederic Byers cup, emblematic of the city golf championship, for the third time when he defeated Robert Graham, 7 and 5, in the 36-hole titular round over the Schenley municipal links yesterday afternoon. His timely victory makes him a double crownholder; the national title is his as well as the city championship. He also is an undefeated Western Pennsylvania amateur champion.

Kauffmann's opponent yesterday, Bob Graham, perhaps expressed better than anyone else the reason for the champion's victory. "You can't beat a fellow who can't miss a putt no matter how hard you try. And the strokes I sure had my share."

And there you are. Kauffmann on the putting green was the master. He saved stroke after stroke with his unerring taps. His game from the tee was just a trifle erratic, yet at that it could not be called bad. On the fairway is where Carl found trouble of a time—for the first time in many a day, we saw him actually dub two or three shots. Kauffmann was not playing as well yesterday, in our opinion, as he was when he lost out to Pat McDonough in the championship final a year ago.

The tournament was very much a success. A large field played, and, except for the last day, the weather was exceptionally nice. It virtually poured immediately after the big match was over yesterday and when John Jay Burke, executive committeeman of the U. S. G. A. public links section, who refereed the match, presented the prizes it had to be done under the porch shelter.

Andy Petrolia provided the best of caddie service throughout the tournament, and the two lads who carried the finalists' bags certainly showed that they had been properly trained. Andy helped the cause along by handling the flag during the title match.

Al McBride, Eddie Kunold, Tom O'Keefe, to say nothing of the Hapchuck boys, also helped with their assistance in other matters connected with the event, while John Kauffmann, brother of the winner and greenkeeper of the Schenley layout, had the course in superb trim.

The cards of the final match follow:

MRS. ELLEN VICTOR

Mrs. J. A. Ellen, playing over her home course, captured the one-day golf tournament of the Women's Golf Association of Western Pennsylvania when she tallied a net 79 over the links of the Pittsburgh Field Club, near Aspinwall, yesterday. She also chalked up the low gross card for the day with her 89.

Miss Annjeannette Hunter, youthful Sanlon Heights Golf Club star, ranked second with a gross of 90, handicap of 7, and net 83. Mrs. Lindlay Hague of the Pittsburgh Field Club won in the second flight with a net 77. Mrs. J. E. Marshall of Butler copped in the third division with a net 80, while Mrs. H. A. Givney of the Pittsburgh Field Club ranked at the top of the fourth group with a net 87. The summary:

First division—Mrs. J. A. Ellen, Pittsburgh Field Club, 89-10-79; Miss Annjeannette Hunter, Sanlon Heights, 90-7-83; Mrs. C. J. Wentz, Pittsburgh Field Club, 94-13-81.

Second division—Mrs. Lindlay Hague, Pittsburgh Field Club, 109-32-77; Mrs. S. E. Bartley, Oakmont Country Club, 109-21-79; Miss Mary Klein, Pittsburgh Field Club, 105-25-80.

Third division—Mrs. J. E. Marshall, Butler Country Club, 117-37-80; Mrs. James Patterson, Allegheny Country Club, 109-29-80; Mrs. S. K. Turner, Pittsburgh Field Club, 113-33-80.

Fourth division—Mrs. H. A. Givney, Pittsburgh Field Club, 110-23-87; Mrs. C. T. Haller, Pittsburgh Field Club, 124-40-84; Mrs. W. D. Boss, Highland Country Club, 126-40-86.

Universal Makes Bow In Tourney Today

DETROIT, Sept. 10.—At 3 o'clock this afternoon the Universal Portland Cement Company team of Pittsburgh will take the field here against the Highwood Athletic Club nine of New Haven, Conn., in the first game of the tournament being held this week and next to determine the Class A amateur baseball champions of the United States.

The selection of opponents is done by draw, and drawings will be made each night during the coming week to determine the opposing teams for the next day's games.

In case the Universals win their opening game, they will play one of the other winners of today tomorrow. The rules of the tourney provide that when a team is defeated twice it drops out of the running, and, following out this plan, the winners of games today will play between themselves tomorrow, the losers of today playing each other on Sunday for the same reason.

There are 21 teams competing, the Johnstown (Pa.) Sheltines being the ones that drew the bye for the first round.

Universal class A champions are on the way to Detroit, where they will uphold the honors of this district at the National Baseball Federation series. The party, in charge of Bill Bain, left Universal by auto bus and will take in the sights en route to Detroit, expecting to arrive there this morning.

DUKE CAPTAIN MADE BACK

After an easy morning yesterday, the Duke football squad was given a stiff scrimmage workout in the afternoon. Coach Layden gave much attention to the development of his line.

Al Sealey, captain of the Bluffmen, has been shifted from center, the position he played for the last two years, to quarterback, the position with which he was most familiar before joining the Dukes.

The squad had another long loaf this morning after yesterday afternoon's tough workout. They did nothing this morning at all, leaving out the customary calesthenics, blackboard drill and signal practice.

COUNTY LEAGUE SERIES OPENS

Bellevue and Beltzhoover, leaders in the Allegheny County League, will begin their playoff series at Bellevue this afternoon to determine the championship of the circuit.

Bellevue won the first-half championship while Beltzhoover copped the honors in the second-half.

The championship will be determined on the two-out-of-three basis. The game at Bellevue this afternoon will start at 3 o'clock.

CHILLY SAUCE

By CHILLY DOYLE

FRESCO THOMPSON of the Quakers has enough ginger to spread over two or three ball clubs. The Quakers do not get much co-operation from the front office, what with selling stars and using the no-scout system, etc., but Thompson continues to play the keystone sack just about as cleverly as anybody in the league and his spirit is absolutely refreshing.

UNDER McInnis' smart leadership and with fellows like Thompson and Fred Leach fighting hard all the way, the handicapped Quakers are battling championship contenders to a standstill. Where the Phillies used to make the cellar position safe for Baker and autocracy by losing 10 to 1, or in that vicinity, they now lose hair-line decisions. Indeed, the Phillies have been known to hold 1 to 0 parties on their bandbox park.

IF THOMPSON had been at second for the Pirates all season there is no telling where the Buccos would be reposing at this time. Fresco's mates say he started the season with a broken finger and he refused to come out of a game during the period of the painful injury. Despite the position of the Quakers, Thompson fights for every game, although he has a sense of humor that makes his work a bit lighter.

"HOW would you like to see a long series for the championship between the Fearless Phils and Reading?" shouted Tommy yesterday.

SPEAKING of youngsters, the doings of the bow-legged Pole in left field were of interest to Pirate fans of yesterday. It might be timely to note that Comorosky may have saved the game in the third inning when he cut down Thompson, who hit a liner to left-center and then hot-footed it to second. Comorosky backed up Sprout Waner and gave the ball to Grantham in time to nip Thompson, who was out under protest.

NEITHER Comorosky or L. Waner can throw like Cuyler and Paul Waner, but the Wichita star apparently carries a pretty fair gun around in the pasture. Sprout Waner has plenty of accuracy, but his arm is much better in leftfield than in center. Cuyler's arm in center has a two-fold threat. Where some runners would scoot to third on other arms, they might also be able to make the grade on Cuyler, but rather than take the risk they will pull up at third.

ORSATTI and Rabbit Maranville had a bad collision as soon as the youngster joined the club. Rabbit is a tough little fellow, but he is not any more rugged than the recruit, who is said to have been a double for Buster Keaton in the hard stunts involved in Keaton's pictures.

BUGS BAER Says

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER.

WHEN the landlord refuses the rent, when a baby cancels its bottle or when a cat spurns a mouse, it's time to call in the alienists and allow them to examine the doorknobs.

ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

But these three hypothetical whoozuses are minor miracles compared with the situation just cooked up on the Pullman trains.

Pullman trains, our modern invention for making overland insomnia enjoyable, are manned by courteous gentlemen called Pullman porters.

These lads are obliging, hard working and sincere in their efforts to make you just as comfortable as you can be with your hand in your pocket.

If that mitt isn't in the pocket then the Pullman porter must ring up no sale on his disappointed cash register. He depends on you for his salary, which is dished out in nickels and dimes.

These Pullman cadets have asked the U. S. government to stop the giving of gratuities, honorariums and fees, or any other subtitle for a measly dime.

They want to be stopped from taking tips. The boys now get a minimum wage of seventy-two plunkers for a month for whisking the nap off fur coats and making up upper berths for people to fall out of.

The rest of their salaries must be made up by contributions from passengers.

Like train schedules, the porter is subject to change without notice. And very small change at that.

But the porter is wrong when he asks the government to fix his wages. The government has a worse idea about salaries than the Pullman Company.

This agitation does not extend to the red caps who juggle handbags in the depots. Those boys are satisfied to leave well enough alone.

Tips have gone up considerable in the red cap department since travelers are packing so many quart medicine bottles in luggage.

All bags must be handled with care and devotion and the voyager is willing to pay liberally for scientific manipulating of perishable freight.

So the red caps are willing to gamble on the chances of getting a law abiding traveler once in a year or so.

It looks as if the Pullman porters have a legitimate squawk on the stove. No man can travel on seventy-two buttons a month.

The boys may keep up their hunger strike on nickels and dimes, but it looks like the first time a four-bit piece is flashed, there will be more strike-breakers than strikers.

"You Said It, Marceline!"

By MARCELINE d'ALROY

ON "RECOMPENSE."

A WISE woman who has Reached SIXTY,
And has stayed
Faithfully MARRIED to
One man, can sit on
The fence of LIFE
And, SMILING, watch the PROCESSION go by.
For at SIXTY she is Hardly liable to FALL
Herself, and therefore
It is very DIVERTING
To see how easily
OTHER WOMEN SLIP. And
For what? A moment?
A MAN? MONEY? Flattery?
It is very amusing.

When women SMILE at the PROCESSION without
Bitterness, it PROVES
One thing, That they have
Sat on the FENCE from
CHOICE, NOT because
No Man ever tried to
COAX them off,
WOMEN with Understanding
Hearts draw MEN
Toward them all their lives
Through, What delights
ONE man delights MANY,
And though they ACCEPT
The LOVE of one man
Only, they receive the Admiration of ALL.

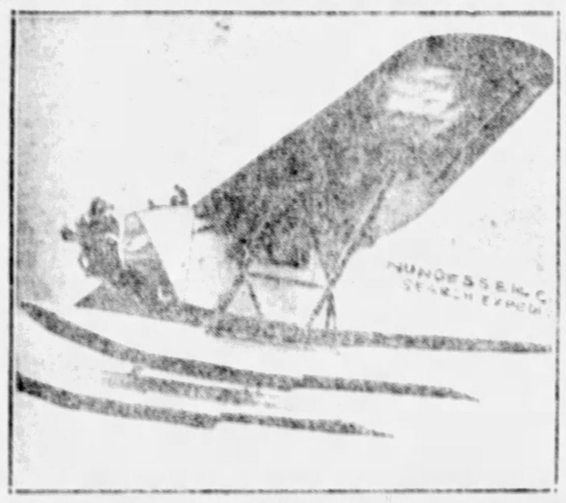
An Air Boat

And a Plane for Land and Water.



IT WENT SEARCHING FOR NUNGESSER.

These two pictures of airplanes show the rapid progress in building air boats.

At the top you see what Mr. Fokker, one of the first and ablest airplane builders, calls his "universal plane." It is intended to land primarily on the water. But at a pinch it can land on land as well as on water.

This Fokker plane was sent by Harry Guggenheim to look for the two brave French fliers, Nungesser and Coli. Flying over all the territory toward Newfoundland, all the inland waters where the brave Frenchmen might have landed alive were searched carefully, but unfortunately without results. It appears now that these two names must be added to the long list of those that have given their lives in the cause of science and progress.

The picture below shows a machine built in France, intended for land or sea, and is the type of airplane that probably will be used more and more.

It carries wheels, on which it can run along the ground and start from the land. It is built like a boat, so that if it drops into the water it can run over the water and ride through the water.

Eventually many of these planes will be built in America. Mr. Fokker may build them, Henry Ford may build them, or the Wright airplane builders may build them, or the great General Motors Company may start in building flying machines, which it hasn't done yet.

Any man possessing ambition, power and money, acknowledging science, may do his part in the great work of the age, taking men up from the earth into the air, and, above all, to make this country safe from attack.

The plane to be built should have wheels for the land, a body for the water, an arrangement by which the wheels can be withdrawn into a compartment in the interior of the boat, and that could come down again when they are needed for earth landing or starting.

We have hardly seen the beginning of flying as yet.

Support Should Be Given To the Symphony Society

Following the plan under which it financed its concerts last season, the Pittsburgh Symphony Society announces a campaign for members. It is hoped to obtain 100 or more new "contributing" members who will pay dues of $100 a year or more. Active member dues are $25; class A, $15; class B, $10, and class C, $5.

No tickets are to be sold for the concerts under the auspices of the society, admission being free, each member being entitled to two seats for each concert under the plan adopted. This is a BETTER way than having an "angel." It gives everybody interested the feeling that they BELONG to a worth-while institution instead of merely being casual patrons.

The first concert last season was attended by 3,800 persons. That is impressive. It signifies the readiness of the MASS of music lovers to support a movement to present the works of the best composers in a manner as near to perfection as funds available will permit. Nobody need be told how important that is. The membership drive will be a SUCCESS.

September 26 is the date set for the closing of the campaign. By that time the membership should be greatly in excess of the number enrolled last year. It will be if those who are giving their time to the project receive the support they deserve.

Drowning for Hire

To drown a minor for his insurance—the crime charged in a current prosecution which has an interest like that of melodrama—has been prevented in some states by forbidding the insurance of minors except for reasons that bear analysis.

In the case now under inquiry it appears that the drowned person, a lad of 20, had been insured for $70,000, with double indemnity in the event of death by accident.

The value of a son to a parent, in terms of affection, might be many times that. But few youths have a demonstrated economic value approaching so large a sum. Jackie Coogan, perhaps—who else?

It might add light on this alleged crime if more were known as to the representations upon which so unusual an amount of insurance was solicited and granted.

Another angle not more consoling appears in the ease and cheapness with which it is charged that this life was destroyed.

If murder is so readily negotiable, we should, perhaps, be surprised, not that it occurs, but that it is not more frequent.

The courts will undoubtedly sift the issue of immediate guilt, but the case suggests need of social research going much deeper.

KEEPING THE FUTURE IN VIEW

President Coolidge is not a "Big Navy" man. But, with the naval conference at Geneva a failure, he says he wishes Congress had authorized 10 new cruisers last session. Congress should authorize and appropriate for them when it meets in December.

Many of the erect and peppy-looking young men you see on the streets these days are products of Citizens Military Training Camps. Take a good look at them and see why Congress should provide greater funds for such work next year.

Garret P Serviss Says:

Individual and Race

PROFESSOR H. S. JENNINGS of Johns Hopkins University, who is regarded as a specialist in heredity, points out that the human race is deteriorating because the processes of modern civilization "are preventing the elimination of the defective." We are told he says in the pronouncement referred to that the public health workers, the social workers, the reformers are outraging the race. They are preventing the survival of the unfit, and progressively lifting the race with the weak and the degenerate who must hand on their weakness and degeneracy to their descendants. But Professor Jennings points out that all organisms, plants, have been forced into adjusting themselves to their environment.

"We can't stop the whole business of adjusting ourselves to our environment. Yet on the other hand, there may be certain instances in existence where the protective work must stop on pain of defeating its own aim."

It has been proved by animal experimentation that a population can by correct methods of promoting survival and production be maintained composed of comparatively defectives, "the halt, the blind, the weak, the variously deformed and degenerate." And experimental biology has not only shown what tendencies such results, but it may indicate how they are to be avoided.

To understand this we must go to the "genes." Not trying to define them technically, we may say that they are the things that determine the characteristics of individuals and they are handed on by heredity. Every individual has his set of genes, but all sets are not alike, and some of the genes in a set may be defective, whereupon serious disorders result.

But chemical therapeutics has found that such disorders can be remedied for the individual, by artificial means. This results in counteracting the defect that leads to diabetes and thereby corrects the results of defective thyroid production. In the past "unfortunate human beings that must have suffered a misery, a burden to themselves and others, are made normal, useful, happy."

However these methods do not remove the defective genes from the individual. He, though rescued himself from their evil effects, hands them on to his descendants, and the generation after generation succeeding in ever widening waves are subject to the same disorders, and to combat them each individual must all his life long "carry with him an arsenal of hypodermic syringes of vials, of capsules of tablets and must remain within the radius of the synthetic chemical laboratories on which he depends."

"This is the result of remedying gene defects."

"So what must be done? Must the cretin drag out his life a helpless idiot, the diabetic sufferers unrelieved till their own defects close their lives in misery and so extinct their stock of defective genes?"

To this Professor Jennings replies that such measures "are preposterously unnecessary, uncalled for, absurd, nay, more, ineffectual." There is an infinitely preferable measure—the carriers of the defective genes should not propagate their kind. "The mere survival of a potentially defective individual—nay, his enjoyment of a full, a useful, a happy, a long life—does nothing to increase the degeneracy of later generations, provided he does not propagate." Such result can be attained without deprivation of any measure of life, except parenthood.

Self-Advertiser

WHAT sort of stories do you enjoy telling?

An exclusive traveler says he can judge the character of a man with whom he converses when he gets to the story-telling period.

The smoking compartment of a Pullman is a good place for this sort of study.

The trend of thought that gives you most pleasure will manifest itself if you follow your natural inclination in story-telling.

The Pullman compartment easily separates the big man from the man who wants to be considered big.

The man who sits back in a corner and listens while he smokes is the one who is looking for some bit of information which he can use to good advantage.

Those who are most talkative probably do the least studying and thinking.

And they are advertising themselves because they think they need to be advertised.

The advertising effect is the reverse of what they seek, namely a good impression.

The Rhyming Optimist

By ALINE MICHAELIS

Buttercup Wisdom

WHAT folly, in a world of sun to seek the shade always, forgetting bliss that may be won to fill the coming days! What folly, turning back from song and lovelines and light and all the train of joys that throng to lend a life delight! If you and I were only wise we would not lose one ray of gold that falls from tranquil skies to cheer our daily ways. We would not let one pleasure pass which we could clasp and keep, though light as dewdrop on the grass or foam-flowers on the deep. But we would treasure every smile and store each joy away till there would be no weary mile on all life's lengthy way. What folly, on this sunlit earth, to sigh in paths of gloom, when every buttercup in myrth lifts up its golden bloom!

Home

THE world wishes success to Lindy in his effort to buy and restore the old homestead and farm which sheltered him as a boy.

It does more than this. It hopes that, when he gets them, he will be able to relive the happy days of carefree youth.

That is the dream of most of us. But, alas, it is only a dream. Cherish as we may the memories, the realities are not renewable.

The Heroic Turk

Even the benighted and usually ignorant Turks are seeing the necessity of a national air fleet. They are going to have one if they have to hock their harems. The Turks may not be unusually bright in some matters, but they have good sense in regard to the value of airships.

Every package which should contain 20 cigarets, sold in Turkey, contains only 19 cigarets. The twentieth one is withheld by the government and will go toward building an air fleet. In a few years it is hoped to have several thousand airplanes.

When a Turk gives up his cigaret, he is making what is pretty near the supreme sacrifice.

BE A PITTSBURGH BOOSTER

To Your Friends in Other Cities

NEW YORK, Sept. 10.—Street carnival troupers are rounding back to town for winter. Once touched by this nomadic life, few desert it. Summer after summer they drift from village to village, oddly content with discomforts of a tented existence.

They are clannish folk depending entirely for human contact among members of their close knit guild. They have been able to uproot romance in dull places. As a rule they are quiet and self effacing but in emergencies have insolent self assurance.

The proprietor of the street show is usually an expansive gentleman given to a wide hat worn at a rakish angle, a Prince Albert coat and a heavy gold watch chain stretched across a gaudy checkered weskit. His manner is booming and patronizing and in carnival language he "shoots square." That is among his own.

The performers are required to display great versatility. They must be able to essay many roles. An ad from the Billboard, the Bible of street show folk—"wire," indicates the idea.

Join on wire at once, top mounter for acrobatic troupe, comedian, double snare drum in street band, character work for after show. Must be 5 feet, 8 inches and have Tuxedo. Dopes, drunks, amateurs and Big Timers stay away. Eat on lot, sleep in tent."

Every show has its crew of seedy pitch men, husky voiced gentlemen in shiny blue serge who "spiel" wonders of a thousand uselless glass articles. Special crowds, burnt leather purses, magic 5 cent boxes, unbreakable combs, key rings, cigar lighters and electric belts.

The successful street carnival depends largely on the ability of the outside barker. It is his job to paint such a glamorous picture of various attractions that a rush to the ticket stand will follow. He is highest paid of all carnival workers.

The expert sign painter and show card writer has found a profitable pasture among the big movie and neighborhood houses. Cabinet signs and lobby cards must be changed weekly. But the cleverness of their presentation plays a big part in boxy receipts. There are several retained by the year for salaries ranging from $12,000 to $20,000. One of the most successful wears a Basque cap and Vandyke.

The assessed valuation of property along Broadway was recently computed at $2,741,115,000. About three hundred years ago it was a narrow path and the only buildings were three frame shacks. Broadway runs cater-cornered the entire length of the island. Its name came from the original Dutch settlers who called it "the breede weg"—meaning the broad way.

Broadway has two mythical characters Joe Zich and Joe Doakes. They are blamed for many things and accredited with great wonders. Then there is George Splevin, the program name used by an actor for one of two roles he portrays.

Tenderloin dice games also have their periods personality who is reputed to wager and lose mythical amounts. His name is Pete Brice and I have talked to people who claim to have met him. They have described his icy manners and his heroicess composure in the great crisis at the gaming table.

I was cured of lying about knowing people I never knew when I was about 28 on a train going from Cincinnati to St. Louis. I talked to a portly fellow about the reigning political boss Geo. B. Cox. I intimated I knew him like that—holding two fingers close together as an illustration. The next morning the conductor told me I had been talking to Mr. Cox.

The Constitution

By DR. FRANK CRANE

The National Security League, Inc., 25 West 43rd street, New York, has just gotten out a pamphlet called "Ask Me Another" on the Constitution. It contains a number of interesting questions and will test our knowledge of this fundamental document with which we all ought to be familiar. Some of the questions quoted at random from this pamphlet are:

1. How are controversies between two States settled?
2. What amendments have been adopted since the Civil War?
3. Is there any precedent in history for a written Constitution as the basic law of a nation before our own?
4. What provision is there in the Constitution for the President's Cabinet?
5. Does the Constitution provide for national political conventions?
6. For what causes may a President or a Vice President be impeached?
7. What would you consider the Constitutional rights of an American citizen?
8. What is the difference between a "Government of laws" and a "Government of men?"
9. Are Chinese children born in the United States American citizens?
10. What is a democracy? What is a republic.

The answers to these questions as given in the pamplet are:

1. By decision of the Federal Court.
2. Amendments 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 19.
3. No.
4. None, except indirect—"President may require opinion of principal officer in each of the Executive Departments."
5. No. Party Systems have grown up because of their effectiveness in organizing public support for candidates for office.
6. Article II, Section 4.
7. The right to life, liberty, property, freedom of religion, of speech, protection of home privacy, right to trial by jury and to have witnesses in his favor, etc. (See first ten Amendments.)
8. "A Government of Laws," by defining the rights of citizens and limiting the exercise of governmental authority, protects freedom. "A Government of Men" leaves freedom subject to the whims of human nature and makes tyranny possible.
9. Yes.
10. A democracy is a government in which the people individually take part, as in a town meeting; democracies must be small units. A republic is a government in which the people collectively rule by electing representatives to act for them.

THE LIFE OF THOMAS A. EDISON

(Authorized and Endorsed by Mr. Edison)

Text by Arthur J. Palmer
Drawings by Frank Kuchenmeister

EDISON went West in 1878 for a vacation. He was staying in a Wyoming town when "Texas Jack," an inebriated two-gun man, insisted on visiting him. "Jack" demonstrated his marksmanship by firing through an open window at a sign. Finally, Edison induced him to leave.

EDISON and his roommate, Fox, a newspaperman, had brought rifles along to hunt jackrabbits. The telegraph operator told them where they would find "jacks" and, soon after, Edison spied one near the station. Carefully stalking, he fired. The rabbit did not move an inch.

SOMEWHAT puzzled, the inventor-tenderfoot crept closer. At 10 feet he fired again, with the same result as before. Becoming suspicious he walked up to his game only to find that it was stuffed. Feeling foolish, he turned around to be met by loud guffaws from the station.

ON A HUNTING trip into the Ute country Edison was permitted to ride on the cowcatcher. One day the locomotive hit an animal about the size of a cub bear. Hurled upward, it struck just under the headlight. Edison ducked and probably saved his life. (Continued Monday.)
